Senator Chandler and the Settlement of the Alabama Claims.

He Proposes to Take British North America in Full of All Accounts.

More Nominations and Confirmations to Office.

Ratification of a Treaty for the Protection of Trade-marks.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 19.

This morning, at the Capitol, and, indeed, the entire day, was exceedingly dull, and no event of importance occurred from 12 until 5 o'clock, the hours of meeting and of adjournment of Congress.

MR. CHANDLER'S SPEECH.

The resolution and speech of Mr. CHANDLER in the half hour of open session on the Alabama question was a little episode, creating a momentary flutter, which, however, died away almost with the echoes of the voice which uttered them. The resolution was briefly that, in the opinion of the Senate, the true solution of the difficulties between this country and England lies in the surrender to us of the British Provinces in North America, on which basis the President was requested to open negotiations. The speech consisted for the most part in the rereading of three old speeches on kindred subjects, and of three or four sets of old resolutions of a similar import to the one of to-day. The Chaplain of the Senate in his prayer, a few minutes before, as if to prepare our minds for what was coming, prayed for the preservation of peace between the two nations. The galleries were reasonably filled, and for a short time Mr. CHANDLER was the hero of the hour. He set out with the declaration that his resolution was offered in the interest of peace, but his bellicose and sanguinary intentions cropped out in every sentence. Mr. CHANDLER was by implication as severe as he could be on Mr. REVERDY JOHNSON, who, on almost every occasion when he introduced his formers resolutions, objected to their consideration, and he was also somewhat caustic on Mr. SUMNER, who had the bad grace in Mr. CHANDLER's estimation to never report all of his war-like resolutions. The argument made by the Michigan Senator to-day was a little piece of perhaps pardonable egotism, the primary proposition of his speech being the effort to prove that he was right years ago in the position he had taken; and the secondary point, that his resolution should be adopted. He complimented Mr. SUMNER on the expression of his views, a few days ago, on the claims, and alluded to its reception by the country—two facts which appeared to afford him supreme pleasure, and from which he drew the flattering conclusion that the world had at length come up to his platform. When Mr. CHANDLER concluded, Mr. SUMNER quietly moved to refer it to his Committee on Foreign Relations, where it went to be pigeonholed with the others. It is needless to say that the speech in question and the resolution, coming as it did from Mr. CHANDLER, does not possess any political significance, and is not a fair expression of the feeling of the Senate—not that Mr. CHANDLER does not possess a high standing in the Senate, but that he is extreme on this particular question of appropriating the forests of the British lion, and of occasionally giving the brute a sound whipping. There was very little comment on the subject during the day, and the whole affair was alluded to somewhat jocularly, and introduced and dismissed from conversation with the remark, "Well, CHANDLER has made another attempt to cut the claws of the Lion."

NEW NOMINATIONS.

Nearly one hundred nominations were made, including WM. P. WEBSTER, of Massachusetts, to be Consul-General at Frankfort-on-the-Main. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations agreed to-day to report favorably on the nomination of Mr. SANFORD as Minister to Spain. There was no debate in his case in committee, and he will probably be confirmed. To-morrow the same Committee will take up the nominations of General PILE as Minister to Brazil, of Mr. CARLISLE as Minister to Sweden, and of JOHN R. JONES as Minister to Belgium. It is not true, as reported by one of your contemporaries, that the Senate has discussed Mr. CARLISLE's nomination and laid the same on the table.

CONTESTED NOMINATIONS.

The Senate spent several hours in debating the cases of contested nominations. Mr. EDWARD STEPHENS, son of ANN S. STEPHENS, the authoress, who was nominated last Winter by Mr. JOHNSON as Consul at Manchester, and again a few days ago as Consul at Leeds, was, after warm debate, rejected, notwithstanding the fact that the papers on which he was appointed bore the indorsement of half a dozen or more Republican Senators, obtained through the diplomacy of the authoress.

Quite a debate also occurred on the nomination of a son of Dr. SEARS, agent of the Peabody Educational Fund, to be Postmaster at Staunton, Va., and a recent comer, Senator WILLEY, of West Virginia, took the ground that he ought not to be confirmed, because he displaced a native Virginian, who is a good Republican. His case was not concluded.

A COLORED MAN APPOINTED.

The President has solved the vexed question—can a negro hold office in Georgia—in a very practical manner, by appointing EDWARD BELCHER, an intelligent mulatto, to the office of Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Third District of that State. Unrepentant rebels may point to their own code and constitution as denying this right as much as they please, so long as there is a practical refutation of their argument under their noses in this effective shape. This practical act does more to solve the question on the right side than all the speeches that have been made in Georgia or in Congress for a twelve month.

APPOINTMENTS TO BE MADE.

The greater part of the nominations remaining to be made by the President during this session will be sent to the Senate to-morrow and the rest on Wednesday, so that an adjournment can be effected by Friday at the latest, if the Senate desire, though at the present rate of progress it will probably require until Saturday to keep the list.

PROTECTION TO TRADEMARKS.

The Senate, in Executive Session to-day, ratified a convention with France for securing the trademarks of citizens of the two countries. It is similar to the conventions for the same purpose recently ratified with Russia and Belgium, and has been negotiated by Secretary FISH and M. BERTHEMY, the French Minister.

THE INDIAN SERVICE.

The appointments for the Indian service have been held back thus far to enable the Quakers and the gentlemen invited by the President under the last clause of the Indian Appropriation bill to respond to the suggestions made as to the part they shall bear in the management of our Indian affairs. The recommendations of the Quakers for superintendents and agents were received to-day by Secretary COX, and cover the following field. The orthodox branch of the denomination propose to assume control, under the Department, of what is known as the Central Superintendency, comprising Kansas and the Indian Territory, and including the Arapahoes, Cheyennes and other hostile tribes. The branch of the denomination known as Hicksites will assume charge of Indians on the Northern Superintendency, including Nebraska and a part of Dacotah, and the representatives of other mixed denominations, as represented by the Christian Commission, will probably be assigned to the control of the Indians of the northern Sioux reservations, heretofore under the control of General HARNEY. The other superintendencies will remain, as now, under the direct management of the Department. Under the section of the Indian bill referred to, authorizing the President to select a board of ten gentlemen, eminent for probity and philanthropy, to aid in the management of Indian affairs, General GRANT has sent invitations to act to a number of men of the highest character, among whom are GEORGE H. STUART and WM. WELCH, of Philadelphia; WM. E. DODGE, of New-York; E. S. TOBEY, of Boston; C. B. FARWELL, of Chicago, and others. Answers have not yet been received from all of them, so that it is not possible now to say who will act. General PARKER, the new Commissioner of Indian Affairs, will assume the duties of his office during the week. He is in unofficial consultation with Secretary COX every day.

TREASURY CLERKS DISMISSED.

Secretary BOUTWELL has thus far dismissed about three hundred of the superfluous clerks of the Treasury Department, of whom one hundred are women and two hundred are men. The pressure for reinstatement is very great, but the Secretary manages to resist it very successfully. Some papers have stated that appointments have been made to fill these vacancies but I have the authority of the Secretary for stating that no appointments will be made until the number of clerks is reduced to the minimum. No appointments have yet been made by Mr. BOUTWELL, except in less than half a dozen instances when a particular person was required to do a particular kind of work.

ARMY OFFICERS.

Under the recent orders of the War Department consolidating the army, a large number of old and faithful officers were thrown out of command. It is understood that the Secretary of War will endeavor to have nearly all of them reassigned to duty in various capacities as soon as possible.

PAYMENT OF INTEREST.

Something less than $500,000 of coupons have been received at the Treasury to this date on account of the anticipation of the May, June and July interest, under the recent orders of the Secretary of the Treasury. The rebate amounts to about $1,700. It is expected that a very large amount of the interest above referred to will be paid prior to the maturity of the coupons.

GENERAL BURBRIDGE.

This morning a certified copy of an indictment against General S. G. BURBRIDGE, a special agent of the Treasury Department, found by the Grand Jury of the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, charging him with bribery, in receiving money from distilleries engaged in defrauding the Government, was produced in the Criminal Court, before Judge WYLIE. General BURBRIDGE, we understand, alleges that it is known that he is here for the purpose of obtaining another position, and that this indictment is part of a scheme to defeat him. He was subsequently discharged on his recognizances.

ASSISTANCE TO EMIGRANTS.

The President pro tem. to-day laid before the Senate a letter from Hon. REVERDY JOHNSON, inclosing a memorial of the Executive Emigration Society in London, praying that assistance be granted to persons who wish to emigrate to this country. The memorial was ordered to lie on the table,

THE NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

The National Intelligencer newspaper, which has been the organ of so many Administrations does not appear to be in a very flourishing condition. To-day its job printing office, with type, presses, &c., was sold at auction for about $7,000.

MORAL REFORM IN THE SOUTH.

This afternoon a delegation of Quakers from various portions of the country, headed by Mr. SAMUEL M. It is proposed by them to appoint a Superintendent, whose duty it shall be to visit the sect in all Southern States, and endeavor to work some improvement in the condition of the people of that section. The President received them cordially, and the interview was a very pleasant one.

UNITED STATES SENATE.

Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 19.

The Senate met at noon.

ENGLISH EMIGRATION.

The President pro tempore laid before the Senate a memorial of the American Emigration Society of London, praying that assistance be granted to persons who wish to emigrate to the United States. He stated that the paper had been sent to the Vice-President by the American Minister, at the request of its signers.

On motion of Mr. HAMILTON it was laid on the table.

POLITICAL DISABILITIES IN VIRGINIA.

The President pro tempore also submitted a petition of S. D. SULLIVAN for the removal of his political disabilities, and a resolution of the Union League of Virginia entreating Congress to refuse all applications for removal of political disabilities unless such applications are indorsed by the regular Republican organization of the county in which the parties respectively reside. Referred to the Select Committee on Political Disabilities.

CLAIMS AGAINST GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. CHANDLER offered the following resolution:

> Resolved, That, in the judgment of the Senate, the solution of all controversies between Great Britain and the United States will be found in the surrender of all the British possessions in North America to the people of the United States, and that the President be and he is hereby requested to open negotiations as soon as practicable for a settlement of all matters in dispute upon that basis.

Mr. CHANDLER thought it was time we should say precisely what we mean. There was no occasion longer to delay the declaration. The Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. SUMNER) the other day made a speech from which the injunction of secrecy had been removed, and which had now become public, showing our relations with Great Britain. He congratulated the Senate and the country upon the advance which the Senator from Massachusetts had made upon this question. Seven years ago—in the year 1862—he (Mr. CHANDLER) had had occasion many times to allude to this very subject before the people of his own State and out of it, and to assert that every depredation on American citizens, directly or indirectly, ought and should be paid for by the Government of Great Britain. In 1864, before General SHERMAN had reached the sea, and before the capture of Savannah, he offered a certain resolution in this chamber, which was lost. He had read at that time a dispatch from the newspapers, dated Toronto, Dec. 13, 1864, that the St. Albans raiders had been discharged for want of jurisdiction. The Canadian authorities made up their minds to protect those raiders who, under the patronage of JEFF. DAVIS, came within our borders to burn, murder and destroy, and then return to the British Provinces. Alarm prevailed along the frontiers and in his own city (Detroit.) Many of the citizens for a long time slept on their arms. In view of all the facts then deliberately stated, and which Mr. CHANDLER now read from the Congressional Globe, he offered a preamble setting forth that raids had been organized in Canada and Nova Scotia, newly enlisted in the British Provinces by persons claiming to hold commissions from the rebel Government of the South, for the purpose of robbing and murdering peaceable citizens, burning cities and villages, piratically capturing and burning merchants' vessels, and plundering unarmed citizens of the United States; and further, that the people of the British Provinces seem disposed to protect those British thieves; and this preamble was followed by a resolution that the Committee on Military Affairs inquire into the expediency of immediately enlisting an army corps to watch and defend our shores from all hostile demonstrations. He at that time asked the consideration of the resolution; but Mr. REVERDY JOHNSON objected. In a subsequent speech he explained what he meant, namely, that the base of the rebellion was in the Canadas. A steamboat was seized at the mouth of the Detroit River, within twelve miles of the city, and even a piano taken out of it. These pirates were from and protected by the Canadas. The people of Detroit lay on their arms day and night to protect the citizens from apprehended incursions of the marauders and murderers and incendiaries. No punishment was ever inflicted upon any of these criminals by the Canadian Government. That Government, however, did pay for the robbery of the Bank of St. Albans, but there was no apology, no compromise, no friendly act to wipe out the greatest outrages ever perpetrated. He then offered another preamble, setting forth the agency of the British Government and of prominent subjects of that country in aiding the rebellion, and concluding with a resolution that the Secretary of State be instructed immediately to make out a list of every ship and cargo destroyed by rebel pirates at a fair valuation, with a rate of interest of six per cent. from the time of capture to the date of the presentation of the claim, and demand from the British Government in full for all ships and cargoes thus destroyed. He moved that the proposition be referred to the Committee on Commerce. The President pro tem. said that it required unanimous consent, and having asked whether there was any objection, Mr. REVERDY JOHNSON said he objected. Mr. CHANDLER said that before offering this resolution he had an interview with General GRANT who was at that time at the front, and said to him, "We have six hundred ships of war in commission, armed and provisioned and ready for action with 54,000 sailors, and never before now so well prepared to demand compensation or reparation from England at the cannon's mouth. He asked General GRANT if the aspect of war should rise in the East, how long it would take him to capture Savannah, Charleston and Wilmington? General GRANT replied that it was better at that time the rebels should furnish the garrisons, because there was no further use for the navy. He said he could capture those forts in thirty days. At that time five or six hundred armed ships could be concentrated at any given point on the Atlantic coast. Mr. CHANDLER could not make this statement when he offered the resolution. He meant business when he did so. He meant that the claims against Great Britain should be promptly paid in full, and if not paid, the worse for Great Britain. The resolution was afterward referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and slept the sleep that knows no waking. He supposed that the Chairman of that Committee had the resolution in his pocket. He thought the Committee on Foreign Relations as well as the country had made progress up to this time. That was in the Summer of 1864. All remembered that General GRANT, in the Spring of 1865, had advanced with his army into Virginia, when the rebellion collapsed, and this left our army and navy free to act, but the time to demand compensation at the cannon's mouth had passed. On the 15th of January, 1866, he followed up this subject with another resolution. He offered it as a peace measure. He desired Great Britain to repudiate the acts of her piratical subjects. If Great Britain should decide that the torch should settle the question at issue, he was willing to accept that mode of settlement. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, which made no report; but as the Secretary of State did press the business contemplated by the resolution, and formally made a demand on Great Britain, he (Mr. CHANDLER) inferred that the Committee on Foreign Relations had received assurances from the Secretary of State that no future legislative action was required at that time, and the Chairman of the Committee assured him such was the case. The bill had been offered and refused, and further negotiations declined. Great Britain had even repudiated our claims, and insolently informed our Government that further negotiation was offensive to her. He read from official documents to show this fact, and that no good could follow from the prolongation of the controversy. In this he agreed with the British Minister. Now, we were informed that no part of the negotiation is open—that negotiation is closed. At that time he said that Great Britain should pay the bill of damages, otherwise we should have non-intercourse with her, and with this view he offered a preamble concluding with a resolution that the President be requested to withdraw our Minister at the Court of St. James, and to issue a proclamation of non-intercourse, to take effect immediately after the proclamation shall be issued. Mr. DIXON, of Connecticut, objected to the consideration of the resolution and so it was laid over. It was his (Mr. CHANDLER'S) impression then and was now, that if this resolution had been passed unanimously the Alabama and other similar claims would have been paid within thirty days from its passage. Every resolution he had offered had been in the interest of peace. Subsequently he offered a resolution that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be directed to inquire into the expediency of repealing our present neutrality laws. The objection of Mr. COWAN carried it over. So his neutrality resolution was killed by a single objection. If we had repealed our neutrality laws, the act would have had a conservative influence upon Great Britain. Everything having failed in the way of peaceful propositions, in November, 1867, he offered a resolution declaring our determination to maintain strict neutrality between Great Britain and Abyssinia, guaranteeing to the flags of both belligerents equal privileges on land and water. This resolution was an exact copy of the declaration of Great Britain proclaimed on the 14th of May, 1861, simply changing the names of the countries in this resolution. Objection was interposed by Mr. SUMNER, who thought it were better the resolution should lie on the table. It was laid on the table, but a few days afterward called up. At the request of Mr. CHANDLER, the Clerk read the remarks he made on that occasion, in the course of which he said he was for giving Great Britain a dose of her own medicine, and not a homeopathic one. He repeated, every one of the propositions to which he had adverted was in the interest of peace, and the resolution which he had offered to-day afforded the only peaceful solution of our difficulties. Why should we agree on negotiation? We have had treaty after treaty and rejected them. This leads to irritation. He uttered the same sentiments he did now two years and a half ago. He would have required a mortgage for the amount due; the mortgage was recorded and the security good. He believed we had now put this matter on a proper basis. If Great Britain should meet us in a friendly spirit, acknowledge her wrong and cede all her interests in the Canadas in settlement of these claims, we will have perpetual peace with Great Britain, but if she does not we must conquer peace. We cannot afford to have an enemy's base so near to us. It is a national necessity that we should have the British Possessions. He hoped such a negotiation would be opened, and that it will be a peaceful one; but if it should not be, and England insists on war, then let the war be short, sharp and decisive. If war should come, he would say now that the sixty thousand veteran soldiers of Michigan would take the contract to capture the Canadas in thirty days, without a man or gun from any other State. But there will be no war. Great Britain does not desire war with us. When our Ministers abroad proclaimed this Government overthrown, because they were nearly all in the interest of secession, it was not wonderful that it was thought so abroad. France thought that it was a good time to establish an empire on this continent. Great Britain also sought to make up an empire from the late United States. Great Britain and France were in accord with the rebellion. If the United States had been overthrown, the empire would have been established; but the United States were not overthrown, and therefore the rebellion was not established. When the Emperor NAPOLEON was informed that the occupation of Mexico would lead to war with our one million of men, he withdrew his army from Mexico. He had staked the cause of the empire on the success of the rebellion. Great Britain staked her empire on the sea. She knew the rebellion must succeed, or she must abandon the continent. In conclusion, Mr. CHANDLER expressed the hope that the resolution would be passed.

Mr. SUMNER moved that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and it was so referred.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. COLE caused to be read an article from a newspaper giving the California Senator as authority for the statement that President GRANT contemplates a called session of Congress. He said he had conferred with his colleague, who had not made any such statement, and as for himself, he had never had a word of conversation with any person touching a called session of Congress. The matter had never been discussed in his presence, and before reading the article it had never entered his mind.

Mr. CASSERLY said it was not his practice to notice anonymous communications, but as his colleague had risen in his place and denied the truth of the paragraph, it was necessary for him to say that the statement therein was wholly unwarranted; there was no foundation whatever for it; the statement, as written, was the first he knew of the subject. He had no conversation with any one upon the subject. He was utterly ignorant and unable to comprehend how the report originated.

NAVIGATION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. KELLOGG offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the Secretary of War to cause an examination to be made as to the condition of the bar at the mouth of the Mississippi River, at the Southwest Pass, so as to ascertain what obstructions to commerce exist, and to report at the next session the best means to remove such obstructions, and cause the deepening of the channel, the probable cost of the same, and the amount expended for such purpose heretofore.

The Senate then went into Executive Session, and at 4:45 o'clock adjourned.

PATRICK JOYCE received a severe cut on the head last evening at the hands of some unknown man, who escaped arrest by immediate flight. JOYCE was taken to the Oak-street Station-house and his wounds dressed.

Severe Storm in the West.

CHICAGO, Monday, April 19.

The storm of yesterday was one of the severest and most extensive that has occurred for a long time. It extended nearly the whole length of the State and west as far as the Mississippi River. At Bloomington a Catholic church not yet completed was blown down and completely destroyed. At Girard and Virden, Macoupin County, hail-stones fell as big as hens' eggs, and nearly every pane of glass was destroyed in the northwest side of the building. The whole surface of the country is covered with water. At Elgin the house of JEROME WILTSIE was struck by lightning, severely injuring a man and boy. At Dubuque a tornado passed over the city. Boarding of the Schooner Lizzie Major by Cuban Officials—Full Particulars.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, April 19.

Captain GILES, of the schooner Lizzie Major, publishes in this evening's Picayune an account of the boarding of his vessel by the Spanish frigate Fernando El Catolica. He states that the passengers taken from his vessel had passports in due form, regularly signed by General DULCE, which were recognized by the authorities at Caibairien, where the schooner touched. The Captain also publishes extracts from his log, giving an account of the affair with the protest made to the officers boarding his vessel, as follows:

> "Being on the high seas, and out of any jurisdiction, I protest against any officer or his men touching or removing any of the passengers or cargo from my vessel; and should any such officer insist upon doing so, the act will be reported officially, and the Spanish Government be held responsible for all damages that may arise through illegal detention."

The protest, however, was of no effect. The Captain, also, gives an account of the murder of prisoners by volunteers at Caibairien.

Three affidavits were made against parties implicated in the brig C. Colson fraud, but all of them have absconded. The cargo has been discharged by the United States Marshal, and only 200 bales of trashy cotton were found to represent 889 bales, for which bills of lading had been signed.

The steamer Nina, SEMMES, from Bayou Sara for New-Orleans, struck a snag above Baton Rouge Saturday night, and sunk in fifteen minutes. Everybody was saved. The boat and cargo, together with the books and papers, are a total loss. The boat was valued at $10,000, and is insured for $6,600.

BLANCHARD was nearly 50 years old, and was supposed to have had considerable money. The testimony indicates that this was a leading motive to the perpetration of the crime.

How Mr. Deloach Saved General Grant's Life.

It has been stated that Mr. DELOACH was appointed Postmaster at Memphis by the President because he had saved his life on one occasion. Mr. DELOACH gave this account of the incident to the Memphis Post:

"Soon after Memphis was captured General GRANT commenced extending his lines in this direction. SHERMAN and HURLBURT advanced from Corinth, and had reached Moscow and Lafayette. Our scouts were traversing the intervening country, and it was regarded as virtually in Federal occupation. General GRANT was eager to reach Memphis, and started without a strong escort to ride toward the city. He reached Mr. DELOACH's house near noon on a hot day in June, accompanied by fourteen staff officers and orderlies. Mr. DELOACH was known, through the scouts, to be a reliable Union man, and General GRANT greeted him warmly, and, having dismounted, asked for water. This was brought, and Mr. DELOACH offered the General a Northern paper which he had just received. He sat eagerly reading, when a neighbor, known as a violent rebel, came in and took a seat. In a few minutes a colored boy entered by a back door, looking much perturbed and alarmed. He beckoned to Mrs. DELOACH, and whispered to her that JACKSON's rebel cavalry had encamped just back of Mr. DELOACH's plantation the night previous, and were then breaking up and preparing to move. Mrs. DELOACH communicated this, in great alarm, but in strict secrecy, to her husband; for their rebel neighbor was watching, as they supposed, and would denounce them if he observed any indication of friendliness to the Union General. Mr. DELOACH at once returned to the room, much excited, as he says, but he is informed by the President that he caught a wink from him and a nod of the head toward the road leading to Memphis. General GRANT immediately arose, and said quietly, that they had a long ride before them, and must decline Mrs. DELOACH's invitation to dinner. Mr. DELOACH followed them to the gate, and informed the General of his danger, suggesting that their safety would depend upon the speed of their horses. They left at full gallop, and when they had rode about two miles they caught sight of a squad of mounted men coming down a cross road, and were unable to decide to which side they belonged. General GRANT told his escort that their only safety was to charge through this squad, if they were rebels, as a heavier force was behind them. They quickened their pace, and were agreeably relieved soon to discover that it was a party of our own scouts, who had just been reconnoitering JACKSON's movements. They reached Memphis unmolested. But in a few minutes after they had left Mr. DELOACH's house a squad of JACKSON's cavalry rode up to the gate and halloed. They asked if Gen. GRANT had been there, and Mr. DELOACH replied that he had. They demanded what he was doing. He told them that he gave him a drink of water, as he would them if they asked for it. They commenced abusing him, when Mrs. DELOACH interfered, and told them they had no right to blame Mr. DELOACH; that he was known by everybody to be a Union man, but he stayed at home and was attending to his own business. They finally left after considerable bickering, and rode rapidly in the direction which GRANT had taken, but their delay and the speed of his horse saved him from any annoyance.

Mr. Sumner's Speech—A Canadian View.

From the Montreal Gazette, April 17.

We give up an unusual amount of our space to-day to a speech delivered in the United States Senate by Mr. SUMNER, the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, on the Alabama question. It is understood that Mr. SUMNER was the spokesman, in the Senate, of President GRANT's Cabinet in this matter, and his utterance may, therefore, be regarded as official. His speech was the only one of those delivered at the secret session which was allowed to be published, and from the precision of its expression, it had evidently been written to serve for a species of manifesto.

Regarded as the case of the new administration at Washington against Great Britain, the statement of Mr. SUMNER assumes an importance greater than intrinsically belongs to it.

With the words of peace on his lips he yet exhibits a depth of bitterness difficult to describe; using word-skill to fire the American heart against Britain, while he puts the demand in such a form that it is impossible it can be complied with.

The whole speech leaves on our mind the impression that the United States Government, for whatever purpose, desire an open question with Great Britain. But it is a policy which is always dangerous, and stirs up ill feeling.

While Mr. SUMNER was so very bitter against the British Government because it, in common with others, recognized the fact of belligerency, he had no word of thanks for its refusal to accede to the request of France to recognize the independence of the South after the battle of Fredericksburg. Had England yielded to the solicitations of NAPOLEON on that occasion, the whole face of this continent would now be changed, and Mr. SUMNER would not talk in his present tone.

Mr. Washburne's Departure from Galena.

From the Galena (Ill.) Gazette, April 15.

Hon. E. B. WASHBURNE, our Minister to France, will leave this evening for the East, preparatory to taking his departure for Paris. He will visit his father and other relatives in the State of Maine, and will sail from New-York for Paris on the 1st of May by the French steamer Pereire. Mr. WASHBURNE's health has greatly improved within the past month, and he is now looking better than at any previous time during the past year. We have strong hopes that he may yet fully recover his health. We wish him a pleasant sojourn in Europe, and hope he may return to his old home in the full vigor of health. Mr. WASHBURNE will retain his fine mansion and other property in Galena, with the intention of returning here for a home after the close of his mission.

The New Governor of New-Mexico.

From the Montgomery (Ala.) Journal, April 15.

The telegraph, this morning, informs us that President GRANT has again sent in the name of our highly-esteemed friend, Hon. CHARLES C. CROWE, as Governor of New-Mexico. The confirmation of the previous nomination failed in the Senate only for want of time to reach it. Our advices are that the Senate will now promptly confirm this appointment. They certainly could send no man to New-Mexico who would discharge the duties of the office more faithfully, or with more intelligence. Colonel CROWE, in addition, is a firm, thorough and devoted Republican, one who did hard and gallant service for the party in the late canvass. We shall rejoice to hear of his confirmation.

THE PECK DEFALCATION.

Total Loss About $150,000—The Warehouse in Charge of the Sheriff of Kings County.

The excitement caused on Saturday by the absconding and defalcation of Mr. E. H. PECK, of the warehouse firm of PARKER & PECK, doing business in New-York and Brooklyn, was still prevalent yesterday. At the Produce Exchange the affair was very generally canvassed by the brokers and others who there daily congregate, and expressions of sympathy for those who are losers by the defalcation were frequent. Numbers of the victimized visited the storage warehouse of Messrs. PARKER & PECK, foot of Degraw-street, Brooklyn, in order to see how matters stand, and were accompanied by others who had a curiosity to know what is the real extent of the losses sustained by their friends. It is now alleged that the absconding partner of the firm has but little money with him—probably not more than a few hundred dollars; and, that the missing funds were not taken by him lately, but have been used at various times during the last two years for paying certain losses sustained by Mr. PECK in consequence of unfortunate grain speculations at the West, into which he entered between two and three years since. The bulk of his losses, it is averred, were in the West, and his efforts from time to time to make them good have resulted in the deficit now ascertained. Mr. JOHN W. MOTT, President of the United States Warehouse Company, applied to Judge GILBERT, of Brooklyn, for an injunction restraining the delivery of any California wheat, oats, or corn from the warehouse, on the ground that the bulk of those cereals now stored there belong to the Company which he represents, and that the removal of any of them on the demand of private parties will work injury to that corporation. The Judge granted the injunction order, which is based on affidavits and a complaint, setting forth alleged fraudulent practices on the part of the warehousemen, and praying that the removal of all grain be enjoined until such property as is now in store be fully identified by the parties claiming ownership of the same, and a judicial determination be had of the legal questions growing out of the defalcation. Sheriff CAMPBELL, on receiving the order of the Court proceeded immediately to execute it, and his deputies now have the warehouse under their charge. Difference of opinion arose, early in the day, relative to the proper interpretation of the order. Several parties who had grain in the establishment desired to remove it, contending that the injunction order did not affect them, that it applied only to certain other kinds of grain, the ownership of which is claimed by the United States Warehouse Company. The Sheriff, however, construed the injunction to imply a total prohibition of removal, and refused to allow any transfer of the grain until proper order had been obtained for that purpose. The statement which appeared in some of the morning papers as to the amount of grain supposed to have been surreptitiously removed by Mr. PECK, and disposed of by him for his own benefit, is exaggerated, as is also the valuation of the grain thus said to have been removed. A thorough examination into the affairs of the warehouse shows that the full amount of missing grain is 198,646 bushels; of which sum 122,327 are of corn, and 76,319 of oats. The money value of the missing property—the total amount of the defalcation—is now estimated at about $150,000, or $100,000 less than the losses were first thought to be. The following is an accurate statement of the losers, and of the extent of their losses—the amounts held by PARKER & PECK being subject to the order of the United States Warehouse Company, which corporation, it will be noticed, loses more heavily than any firm on the list:

Name.	Bushels.
Parker & Peck, corn	23,546
Parker & Peck, oats	42,092
Wade & Esty, corn	26,309
Wade & Esty, oats	18,462
Darling, Albertson & Rose, corn	37,414
Kent & Co., Broadway, corn	7,000
Whitlock & Wallace, oats	15,765
Stout Bros., corn	2,000
L. B. Coleman & Co., corn	3,700
J. Ketchum, corn	14,711
Flint & Co., corn	7,647

The Second-avenue Railroad Strike.

The strike of the Second-avenue Railroad drivers remained in the same state yesterday as during last week. The men are determined not to comply with the rules of the new Superintendent, which exact more than fourteen hours' daily work, and the latter appears equally firm, notwithstanding the daily losses incurred in the feed of stock and other expenses, without any returns. No cars ran yesterday upon the road, which renders the Company liable to lose their charter, but the directors assert that the failure to run is not because they do not employ the means to do so, but because the new drivers they engage are not properly protected by the City authorities in their duty, but are driven from their work by threats of the strikers. The latter, on the contrary, assert, that the new hands are not deterred by threats, but, on hearing an explanation of the case, will not stoop to take the places of men who are struggling for a manifest right. Judge CONNOLLY presented himself yesterday at the depot of the road and advised those men who were standing there to return to work, but when the case was made plain to him, he ceased doing so. He had not previously understood the matter. The Common Council are now interesting themselves in the question. Yesterday, in the Board of Assistant Aldermen, a preamble and resolutions were presented, which appear elsewhere in the regular report of their proceedings.

The Great European Circus.

The great European Circus, the largest establishment of the kind in the United States, made a tour through the principal streets of the City yesterday. First came a squadron of cavaliers in gorgeous raiment, mounted on superb chargers. Then followed numerous chariots, each preceded by six horses, the principal one being drawn by eight camels, with an infantile camel trotting alongside. Next came a company of fair damsels mounted on snow-white horses, and accompanied by LA JEUNE BERT, the champion hurdle rider. The grand car, on the top of which rode a gigantic lion, came next, and this was followed by another car on which appeared a large globe with a female figure, representing America, probably, sitting beside it to take care of it. Altogether, with its music, horses, cars, camels, lions and ladies, the procession made quite an imposing display. Performances will be given each day and evening in the pavilion at the corner of Thirty-fourth-street and Broadway. DE BERG, WATSON, COOKE, MARQUIESE and the CONRADS are among the performers.

MONDAY, April 19—P. M.

The sales of Gold to-day were at strong prices—133⅝@¾@⅞@⅝@¾@⅞@134 ₰ cent., closing about 133⅞ ₰ cent. at 4 o'clock P. M. The Cash Gold was not abundant, and in some cases a small consideration was paid for its use. The ease with which balances are carried over for the Bull account, and the fact that the Treasury Office is delivering but moderate amounts on the Gold Interest, encourage the present upward movement, and the calculation is that these influences will give it support for a week or ten days to come. The Bremen steamer delivered $85,000 in Gold from England this morning. The Treasury Office paid out $363,000 Gold Interest, and received $418,000 for Customs.

The Money market has settled down to a 7 ₰ cent. Currency rate of Interest, on call, and from 7 to 9 ₰ cent. on prime Merchant paper. On these terms the offerings from lenders are quite adequate to the wants of the Brokers, but there is no present indication that a lower rate on call than 7 ₰ cent. will be accepted, although some few borrowers attempted this morning to place their Stocks on 6 ₰ cent. interest.

Foreign Exchange was steady on London at 107⅞@108 ₰ cent., 60 days, and several of the leading drawers were stiff in their demands at 108 ₰ cent. A fair business was done for the steamer of Tuesday, (to-morrow,) and more would have been done but for the advance in Gold, to which the regular trade remitters of Exchange are not inclined to submit.

On the Stock Exchange there was an inclination to realize on the Public Funds of the United States, at Saturday's advance on nearly all the Gold-bearing 6 ₰ cent. Bonds, while the 10-40s were better, and the Currency 6 ₰ cent. made a further advance to 105 ₰ cent. At the late Government Board, and subsequently on the Street, the sales of 5-20s of 1862 were ⅜ lower than the outside price of Saturday; the 1865s and 1867s, July and January, ⅛@⅜ lower; the old 1865s and 1864s, May and November, ⅛@⅜ lower.

The Southern Stock Boards show considerable firmness on Tennessees, Virginias, Louisianas, Missouris and old North Carolinas, while the new North Carolinas are pressed on sale because of the recent unwise legislation at Raleigh and the failure of the State authorities to appreciate the importance of making some reasonable provision, immediate or prospective, for the payment of their interest in this City.

In the Railway market another large business was done at the early and afternoon Boards and in the Long Room, but there were some irregularities in the temper of the speculation although the prevailing report from the Brokers was of firmness in the New-York (Vanderbilt) Stocks and most of the Westerns. The Miscellaneous Shares were especially firm, and upward on Mariposa and Western Union Telegraph, and weak at the close on Pacific Mail.

After the late Boards broke up the following quotations were made as compared with Saturday night. Gold was firm:

The day's business at the office of the United States Assistant Treasurer was as follows: Total receipts, $2,778,930; total payments, $4,023,743; balance, $88,727,463. The receipts include for Customs, $418,000; for Gold Notes, $100,000.

By an act of the Legislature of Illinois, which has just passed over the Governor's veto, the Illinois Central Company have acquired a water right into Lake Michigan, fronting the City of Chicago, equal to a thousand acres square, and with a frontage of about one mile. Under this grant they will be privileged to build docks and piers, to facilitate the commerce of the City, and to lease the same in their own right, besides greatly accommodating their own rapidly increasing business with the Lake. The whole consideration paid to the City of Chicago is $800,000 for a station property fronting the Lake, to the cost of which two other Railway lines will contribute $500,000, without acquiring any interest in the above-mentioned water right.

We are indebted to a member of the Stock Exchange, doing an active Commission business, for the following tabular statement of rates for Money from March 25 to April 17, 1869, inclusive:

March 25—7 ₰ cent. Gold.

April 15—7 ₰ cent. Gold.
April 16—7 ₰ cent. interest Currency to 7 ₰ cent. Gold.
April 17—7 ₰ cent. interest Currency.

It will be observed, says our correspondent, that over 75 ₰ cent. of the transactions noted were consummated at the higher rates named for each day, excepting on April 1 and 2, when loans were made in about equal amounts at the two rates; the lower rates in every instance prevailed toward the close of banking hours, the reason for which is obvious. The above quotations are solely applicable to call loans on the customary marginal collaterals.

The earnings of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad Company were in March:

1869	$154,541
1868	129,570
Increase	$24,971

COFFEE—Has been quiet to-day, but held firmly. Reports were in circulation of large sales of Rio, but not authenticated. NAVAL STORES—The main call has been for strained Resin, which has not been offered freely while it has been in brisk demand, largely to arrive, at very fair and buoyant prices. Sales have been reported, since our last, of 8,500 bbls. here, at from $2 50 for Strained, to $2 57½ for Good Strained; also, 6,000 bbls. Strained, to arrive, at $2 50 ₰ 280 lbs. In the finer grades of Resin, no important movements have been reported. The offerings have been light and prices strong. The receipts of Resin amounted to only 895 bbls. Tar has been inactive within our former range. There were only 35 bbls. receipts. Nothing new in Pitch or Crude Turpentine. A very weak and irregular market was reported for Spirits Turpentine, the offerings of which were largely in excess of the wants of buyers at 48c.@49c., in merchantable and shipping orders, while the best bids were 47c. and 48c., respectively, for straight lots ₰ gallon. PETROLEUM—A very light offering of all kinds of oil for both immediate and forward delivery operates as a check on transactions. Holders claim very full prices, and show no disposition to make concessions from extreme rates. Crude in bulk was inquired for at 17c.@17½c., but not available to any considerable extent at those figures. For forward delivery, 2,500 bbls., all told, have been disposed of for May at 18c. ₰ gallon, which price was bid for further round lots, same delivery. Barreled Crude was in demand at 22c., but not offered under 22½c.@23c. ₰ gallon. No receipts of Crude were reported here to-day; at Philadelphia 250 bbls. arrived. Referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. At 1:30 o'clock the Senate went into Executive session.

It is reported that a number of employes at the Philadelphia yard have left the Government employ on account of the twenty per cent. reduction.

General Character of General Grant's Appointments to Office.

We concur in the main with what our Washington correspondent said yesterday of General Grant's appointments to office. In general they have been good,—such as commend themselves to the approval of the country, by the fitness of the men appointed and the influences that have controlled their selection. Mistakes have unquestionably been made,—but they are fewer in number than usual, and have mainly occurred in cases where the President has yielded to the pressure of politicians. We believe, too, that they have been, and will continue to be, promptly corrected when discovered.

It may be true that the percentage of bad appointments would have been still smaller than it is "if people had been as ready to furnish President Grant with correct information about candidates in advance of their nomination, as they were to decry them after appointed." But it must be remembered that the country was assured, at a very early date, that advice was not wanted, and that people who volunteered it would injure rather than improve their standing with the Administration. And, as it is, we imagine General Grant has had a good deal more of "information" concerning candidates for office than he has known how to dispose of. We think he has been a good deal embarrassed by the fact that the moment any man was suggested for office, his character, public and private, was assailed from every quarter, and every possible effort was made to compass his defeat, mainly, of course, in the interest of his rivals. It has not been so much from lack of information concerning candidates for office, as from inability to decide how much of it was disinterested and reliable, that General Grant has fallen into the mistakes he has made in this respect.

And we venture to say that he has suffered more from members of Congress in this matter, than from any other single class. In the first place they act more uniformly from interested motives than any other class, in seeking appointments to office. They care but little for the credit of the Administration, and still less for the interests of the country, in the distribution of patronage. Their main object—that to which all other considerations are sacrificed—is their own interest, the securing their own reëlection or their own promotion to higher places: and this they seek by getting office for their most devoted and zealous political supporters. This is true of Members of Congress, as a rule,—to which, possibly, there may be exceptions; but, if so, they are very rare.

In the next place members of Congress are reckless and heedless, beyond any other class of people, in signing recommendations for office. They attach not the slightest sense of responsibility to such signatures. They yield to paltrier motives than other men; they are more cowardly and show less manliness and self-respect, when asked to sign, and repudiate the act when done with more shameless hypocrisy, than any other class of the community. It is urged, for example, as an excuse for General Grant's nomination of Mr. Ashley to be Governor of Montana, that he could not resist the application of 150 members of Congress asking him to do so. Yet, more than half these members would not hesitate, if they had been asked, to say to General Grant that they signed merely because Mr. Ashley sat among them and asked then to sign,—because others were signing, and it would look ungracious to refuse, and they did not for a moment suppose that such an application would amount to anything. Very many of those who did sign that paper have already urged these considerations in extenuation of their action. Yet, the effect of it, whatever may have been its motive, was to lead General Grant into perhaps the very worst nomination he has yet made. And he must bear the responsibility of it. The act is his, and all the explanations, disclaimers and protestations they can make will not relieve him of its responsibility, or put any part of it on their shoulders.

It is not easy to say how this evil can be remedied, but until it is remedied,—until the recommendations, however urgent, of members of Congress, cease to control the action of the President in making appointments to office, he will continue to make disastrous and disgraceful mistakes in this important branch of the public service. One expedient is open to him: he might, whenever such a list as that of Ashley's backers, for example, is presented to him, select from it the names of half a dozen who are known to him to be disinterested and reliable, and obtain from them all the information in their possession,—all the facts bearing on the case, and then require them to assume personally the responsibility of the appointment,—to certify, on their official honor and personal character, that it is one which they would themselves make if they had the power. Such a certificate would be worth thousands of simple signatures, given without reflection and simply as a means of escaping importunity. Of course, it would involve some trouble; but so momentous and so important a function as that of appointing thousands of public officers throughout the country cannot, and ought not to be performed, without trouble. And no trouble taken to secure its proper performance ought to be considered useless.

Until we have a settled Civil Service system, based upon recognized principles of justice, and governed by fixed rules of administration, we shall be subject to all the evils which we now experience. The President will continue to be crushed with applications,—overridden and overruled by members of Congress, and treated, in all respects, as the chief Superintendent of a first-class Soup-House. The Administration will be corrupt and inefficient—the country will be disgraced, and republican government will contrast unfavorably with any and with all other forms.

British Sayings on the Alabama Controversy.

If Lord Stanley and the London Times are to be accepted as correct expositors of British feeling with regard to the Alabama claims, the probability of an early and amicable settlement of the points in controversy is not great. Bitterness and unreasonableness are not characteristics of the Ex-Minister; yet we find him declaring in advance against what, according to Mr. Sumner, must be the initial point of future negotiation. "There has never been any question upon our side of offering reparation for willful and intentional wrong," his Lordship is reported to have told his Glasgow audience, "because we do not admit, and we have no right to admit, that any such wrong ever was committed by us." The declaration smacks of infallibility, with a touch of self-righteousness. The latter quality reappears in the closing language of the speech. "Whatever happens, we have secured the main point. We shall have satisfied our own consciences, and we shall have put our country unmistakably in the right." The traditional Pharisee would choose precisely this strain.

The London Times approaches the subject more practically. It interprets the recall of Mr. Johnson and the appointment of Mr. Motley as proof that the nature of the negotiation is to be somewhat changed. It understands that the failure of the treaty, which then appeared imminent and has now occurred, is the inevitable result of the fact that in his negotiations and in the settlement to which he made himself a party, Mr. Reverdy Johnson ran counter to the convictions of his countrymen, whose demands will henceforward assume a different shape. But the Times evidently shares Lord Stanley's belief that by consenting to the now defunct treaty the British conscience was fully satisfied. "This country has gone to the extreme of concession in the matter of the Alabama claims," is the saying of the London journalist. If the result of this concession be set aside—it is added—"our duty will simply be to abstain altogether from further overtures." What the Times will say when the extent of the American requirements as sketched by Mr. Sumner becomes apparent, we may without much difficulty imagine. "Unfriendly and offensive" are terms applied incredulously to the hypothesis which, unless we are mistaken, Mr. Motley will be instructed to treat as a reality.

We must admit that the British Government may not unnaturally chafe under the rejection of a treaty which embodied all the points presented by the late Administration through its representative in London. What Mr. Reverdy Johnson asked, Lord Clarendon—following Lord Stanley—conceded. The treaty was framed in conformity with Mr. Seward's exposition of the national wishes. Mr. Adams, indeed, took broader ground; the points elaborated by Mr. Sumner did not escape his attention. But Mr. Johnson's propositions were less exacting, and in complying with them, the British Government undoubtedly supposed that the settlement would be accepted as a finality. To this extent the self-satisfied tone of Lord Stanley and the London Times is intelligible and even fair.

The error both make is in proclaiming positively an aversion to the change in the basis of negotiation which both evidently anticipate. That any fresh overture on the subject should proceed from this country is clear enough. Having rejected an agreement dictated in our name and acquiesced in under a belief that it would satisfy us, we are bound to take the initiative in reopening the discussion, and to vindicate fully the conditions insisted upon as the groundwork of a settlement. Taking Mr. Sumner's speech as a key-note to the conditions to be urged, we see nothing that should prove insuperable, and nothing to which Great Britain can object without putting herself in the wrong. There is but one alternative before Lord Clarendon. Either he must meet Mr. Motley on the broad ground which has been foreshadowed, and preface any adjustment of claims with that reparation for national injury which other Governments were not ashamed to offer, or the idea of settling the Alabama question must be for the time abandoned. To one or the other of these conclusions he must come. And it is unfortunate, we think, that the statesmen and publicists of England allow their resentment at the rejection of the Johnson-Clarendon treaty to take the shape of pronounced hostility to the American Government. The question at issue is too important, the interests at stake are too vast, to make the mere contingency of an actual quarrel wise or safe. Till the Alabama claims be settled, the relations of the two countries will be more delicate and sensitive than they should be, if peace is to be preserved.

The Administration and the Press.

Whatever may be said of it in other respects, there is one particular in which General Grant's distribution of official patronage meets our unqualified approbation;—we mean its ostentatious neglect of the public Press. No editor of an influential newspaper has been appointed to public office, with one exception, and in that case it was promptly declined. Whatever may have been the motive of this exclusion, the fact is eminently serviceable to the profession which it somewhat contemptuously ignores.

We have never joined in the absurd and extravagant self-laudations of the power and purity of the Press. But that the country must look mainly to the Press for the reform of evils, the correction of abuses, and the preservation, in an endurable shape, of free institutions, we think is beyond dispute. The politicians of the country,—the men who control its conduct by filling its offices of power and of profit,—are selfish, venal and corrupt; and as a class they are growing more selfish and more corrupt every year. The government of our great cities has become a by-word of reproach and just contempt. Our State Legislatures are equally bad; there are not half a dozen in the whole Union which are not notoriously open to the basest and most degrading influences by which human action can be controlled. And Congress is rapidly falling into the same false and fatal course. The politicians of the country,—the compact, active, organized army by which the whole civil administration is guided and governed,—have become utterly demoralized,—have thrown away regard for principle and for honor, and look upon government only as an agency for plundering the country for their own benefit,—and its offices, not as means of rendering it honorable service, but of enriching themselves at its expense.

There is only one power capable of relieving the nation from this intolerable tyranny, and that is the People, the source of all power under our form of government. And there is but one agency through which the People can be enlightened as to the real nature of the tyranny of politicians by which they are ruled, and that is, the Newspaper Press. If that Press becomes the mere tool of the politicians, it is of course the ally and accomplice of the tyranny from which the people suffer. It is only as it is independent of the ruling political hierarchy,—disinterested in its relations with the Government, and devoted to the rights and interests of the People, that it can render service of the slightest value to the country. And the Administration cannot render the country a greater service than by excluding the controlling conductors of the Newspaper Press from public office, and thus relieving them from all temptation to betray, or neglect, the interests which are mainly committed to their care.

Of the claims of editors to office, of which so much is said, we have nothing to say. It is doubtless true that they do create most of the "great men" of the country,—they make most of the law-givers and executives of the nation;—and in most cases they have much more reason to be ashamed, than to be proud, of their work. The country owes them no gratitude and no pay for that. The best service they can do the country is to watch the conduct, expose the faults, and denounce the crimes of the men they have placed in power. They owe that reparation, at least, to the people for what they have already done. And they will find that service at once the most useful and the most honorable which they can perform.

We are glad that General Grant has not sought to tempt any of them to desert it. Governments generally either seek to bribe the Press into a blind support of its acts, or to bully it into a servile defence of its blunders and its faults. The first is usually the resort of weakness in administration; the last is the reliance of insolent tyranny. General Grant, we trust, will continue as he has begun, by steering clear of both. The Press asks nothing but independence, and if it is worthy of its mission it will have that.

The Appraisership.

Secretary Boutwell's letter to Mr. Dana, which we published yesterday, says that his acceptance of the Appraisership "is the point on which our success in collecting the Customs revenue turns." And Mr. Dana, in his reply, apologizes for declining the office, inasmuch as "in these days of corruption, in high places as well as in low places, no upright citizen ought hastily to refuse such a request." There is an assumption in both these letters that a change in the Appraisership,—not to say the acceptance of it by Mr. Dana,—is essential to its honest administration and to "success in collecting the Customs revenue."

This strikes us as in the highest degree unjust to Mr. Thos. McElrath, the present incumbent of that office, whose integrity and efficiency in its administration have never been impugned, and will not be excelled by any one who may succeed him,—even if he were to be replaced by Mr. Dana himself. We do not believe that the Secretary intended to convey any such imputation as his words, imply or to do more than express his estimate of the importance of the office and to intensify his compliment to Mr. Dana. We certainly have never heard, from the Treasury Department or elsewhere, any intimation that the affairs of the Appraisership were not managed with complete fidelity and success, nor have we yet heard from any quarter any reason for the removal of the efficient, worthy and popular gentleman by whom the duties of the office are now performed.

The Cuban Question.

The facts furnished by our Washington correspondent exhibit the falsity of the pretence on which the recognition of the Cuban insurgents has been sought. "The recent official information from the United States civil and naval officers in Cuba and on the adjacent waters," it is stated, "agrees in asserting that the revolutionary movements are diminishing in importance, and that a compromise may be expected." This is not a Spanish story, remember. It is not a version of affairs put forward in the interest of the Spanish authorities. It is the estimate formed and expressed by Americans and American officials on the island, whose opportunities of observation are good, and whose sympathies naturally predispose them in favor of the insurrectionary movement. Their conclusion is, that despite rumors of strength and victory the insurgents are losing ground, and have no chance of victory. We have for some time been persuaded that the only hope of success for the insurrection rested upon the continued and increased receipt of material help from this country. It is more than probable that but for fillibustering accessions the movement would have been ere now crushed. Its main reliance vanished when the project of recognition failed in Congress, and the purpose of the Administration to maintain an attitude of neutrality became known.

The inventive spirit that has endeavored, by lying, to convert a dying into a victorious cause, has attempted, and in some quarters still attempts, to convey the idea of trouble between the Administration and the Spanish Government. The impression sought to be conveyed is, that the President has no intention of enforcing the Neutrality laws with the requisite vigor—that, in fact, he is quietly winking at fillibustering preparations, and watches eagerly for any complication to which they may lead; and, further, that the (alleged) offensive attitude of the Captain-General is relied upon to give an excuse for aggressive measures. For these representations there is not the slightest foundation. Not only is there no connivance with armed expeditions, but there is a firm determination to repress them. And there are good reason for believing that the steps taken to protect Americans in Cuba, and their interests, will be effectual without in any manner embroiling us with Spain [illegible] its officials. General Dulce has issued a very foolish proclamation, but he has never shown himself unwilling to listen to remonstrances emanating from United States authority, or to afford any reparation it may have demanded in behalf of American citizens.

The recklessness with which those who would have this country involve itself in difficulties by recognizing an insurrection which, left to itself, has never had more than a very slight prospect of success, should tell largely against them. Some allowance may be made for an excess of zeal in what may seem a patriotic cause. But the systematic falsehood which has magnified crime into warfare, and paltry skirmishes into decisive battles, has made it impossible to respect the tactics which had in Mr. Banks an advocate. And the mischievous endeavors to mis-state the policy of the Administration, and if possible force upon it a foreign quarrel, will still further alienate the intelligent opinion of the country. The Cuban cause may have merits per se, but as manipulated here and at Washington, it is a fraud and a nuisance.

MINOR TOPICS.

In almost every batch of nominations sent to the Senate by the President for any department of the public service, there have occurred the names of colored men as nominees. In the brief list of Internal Revenue Assessors sent in yesterday there was one citizen of African descent. He was nominated as Assessor for the Third District of Georgia, which includes some very wealthy portions of the State.

Those who are talking so very glibly about the transfer of Canada, Nova Scotia, New-Brunswick, Prince Edward's Island and New-foundland to this country by the English Government, lose sight of one fact. It is not in the power of the English Government to transfer these vast territories, with their population of four millions. The colonists would not submit to be bought and sold in this way. And it is they who would have to be consulted about the matter. The free and hardy population of Canada and the Maritime Provinces would be very apt to take their destiny into their own hands if they found they were to be made the subject of trade and dicker. Of course we could fight them and "whip them." We could "whip" anything whatever—couldn't we? But then they also could make a show of fight, and could add a billion, or so, to our national debt before we brought them into the Union as subjugated territories to be governed by the great men at Washington.

The tax levies for the City and County of New-York, now before the Legislature, present an aggregate of over four millions of dollars, while the estimates prepared by the Citizens' Association show how this amount may be reduced by nearly one-half. The estimates of the Association may be found to be too low in some particulars, though we do not doubt their general correctness; but it is the duty of the Legislature to scrutinize every item closely, in order to save our already over-taxed citizens from every unnecessary burden. To-day these levies are made the special order in the Senate, and it will depend very much on the action of that body whether at least a million and a half of dollars shall be saved to the tax-payers of this City. We trust the Republican Senators will range themselves on the side of economy and retrenchment.

Governor Hoffman has evidently studied the processes of legislation very thoroughly. In the last of his railroad veto messages—that vetoing the bill granting $250,000 to the Whitehall Railroad—he says:

> "It is a fact as apparent as it is deplorable, that whenever heavy demands are made upon the public Treasury for other than the ordinary expenditures of the State Government, influences are at work in and around the Capitol to secure their success, which are not calculated to promote an impartial exercise of the legislative power; and it may be predicted with almost absolute certainty if these present applications are successful, that at some future day, and that not very far distant, a portion of the very money now drawn from the Treasury of the State, will be used as means to secure renewed and increased appropriations for like purposes."

It would be hard for any one to indicate more courteously his perfect knowledge of the agencies by which special acts of legislation, involving valuable considerations, are passed through the Legislature. For Governor Hoffman's opposition to the corrupt schemes of his own party, he deserves the respect of the people of the State.

It will be seen by a notice in another column that some of our most prominent merchants have forwarded to Washington a petition for the retention of Mr. McElrath as Appraiser at this port. This testimonial to his merits and efficiency as a public officer is well deserved.

A correspondent thinks the great objection to the Broadway Railroad has been overlooked. He says:

> "A grant was given for a railroad through Ann and Fulton streets to the ferry. Then the railroad negotiated with the Common Council for widening Fulton and Ann streets for its benefit, which improvement was carried through the Common Council. Now, if the Broadway Railroad grant is given, our Common Council will have an interest in it, and will pass a resolution to widen Broadway for its benefit,—one-half the expense to be borne by the City and the balance by County assessment—as the bill before the Legislature, if passed, will authorize."

Senator Chandler is again on the war-path, and he again wants a "little blood-letting," not having had enough in the interval that has elapsed since he first uttered the sanguinary cry, eight years ago. Canada he demands from England—he desires it peaceably, if possible, but, "if England desires war, let it be sharp, short and decisive." He spoke in the Senate, yesterday, about the "sixty thousand Michigan veterans, who, alone, would see to the capture of the British Provinces," and he uttered some other nonsense which a sober man ought to be ashamed of.

The gold-gamblers are gathering in the profits from the war they threaten to make upon Spain in re Cuba. If they could only get a Spanish ship to fire a stray shot, or a hostile shot, in the direction of an American ship, they would make piles out of the circumstance, and would grow more frantic than ever.

The prize-fighters of the country are beginning to recognize the doctrines of the social equality of all men in single combat. The pugilist Barney Aaron has issued a challenge to fight any man in the world, black or white, at 120 pounds, for $1,500 a side. There have been prize-fights in England between white men and negroes, as in the case of Molineaux; but this challenge opens up the first prospect, so far as we know, of such an event in this country.

The new "Club-house" for women that was opened yesterday in Twenty-third-street, will serve a very useful purpose if properly conducted. The greater part of the building is already rented by female associations, but there will be furnished apartments for women visiting the City who may wish to make this place their headquarters instead of attempting to gain admission to hotels. The managers of the concern ought to adopt very rigid rules for its government, in all respects.

The Common Council took up yesterday the suggestion we made in our last issue, that the Second-avenue Railroad Company are violating the terms of their charter by stopping the running of their cars. A resolution was introduced at one of the Boards, reprehending the Company for their exactions, and providing for the enforcement of the terms of the charter. In the meantime, the Company protest that they do not violate these terms, as they are ready to resume operations whenever employes will submit to the conditions imposed. This is absurd. The conditions are scandalous and inhuman. They are such as should not be imposed upon any class of men, and to which no class of men should submit. The City authorities should take steps toward prosecuting the Company, and enforcing a proper penalty for the wrongs they are imposing on the residents of the east side.

There is a ghastly kind of comfort in reading the language in which the Pennsylvania Press speak of their State Legislature which has just adjourned. It is roundly denounced as "the most venal and corrupt body of men that ever sat in deliberation in the State Capitol," which encourages the forlorn hope that perhaps our Legislature may not be absolutely the most venal body that ever robbed a State under pretence of making laws for it. "Any thing that had money in it," says the Harrisburg State Journal, "however unfair, disgraceful and destructive it might be, was sure to pass." "Divorce bills were openly sold in the lobbies; the Tax bill on coal was bought through the House, and when it reached the Senate $2,000 a vote was freely offered for its passage." Why, then, did it not pass? Are votes higher in Harrisburg than in Albany?

The President's Appointments.

In the letter of our Washington correspondent printed yesterday an error occurred which makes it appear that the one thousand nominations thus far made by the President are seventy-five per cent. of all the appointments in his gift, and that they include but five per cent. of the most important. What our correspondent wrote was that the number was scarcely twenty-five per cent. of the whole, yet it includes seventy-five per cent. of the most important offices at the disposal of the President.

THEATRICAL.

Booth's Theatre.

It is announced that Mr. Booth is to exchange characters with Mr. Adams. The former will assume the part of Iago and the latter of Othello. The change bodes good for both artists. Mr. Booth has, perhaps, the least to gain by it—save the new attraction thus given to Shakespeare's tragedy. His portrait of the dusky Moor is, at least, a studious performance. There are point and purpose in it. We can compare it to nothing better than a frame of exquisite minatures. Each one is warmly tinted. Supposing the number to be five—to correspond with the acts—there are certainly five beautifully-wrought works to contemplate. Many of these possess the merit of originality, but on the whole there is a sameness in the treatment, without the connection which sameness should imply. The illustration is not far-fetched, and it is certainly not meant to be unkind. Mr. Booth is essentially pictorial, not plastic. He sketches a character, and frequently with the happiest insight into its most prominent demonstrations, but he does not present a distinct, well-defined form or type of an idiosyncrasy. Othello, therefore, is a character which suits him. It is heroic and picturesque, and these points are admirably preserved by Mr. Booth. But when the fearful passion of jealousy takes possession of his bosom, he is at a loss. Of course he reads the lines and acts, but the early nature portrayed is not one that could so easily be diverted from its course of unsuspecting love. The character of Iago has always been regarded as one of his best. It is certainly Mr. Adams' worst interpretation. He is utterly deficient in subtlety and guile. There was nothing that we could see which should, in the slightest degree, lead astray either man or woman. His influence on the destinies of every one is therefore inexplicable. As Othello, he will, at all events, assume the martial garb of the warrior, and in general interest will, we have no doubt, make much of the final scene.

Miss Mary McVicker does not look the character of Desdemona. Her appearance is interesting, petite and winning. That she strives to do her best, we do not doubt, and in the fourth act she is really good. But the qualities that are required in tragedy are absent in everything save her walk which is almost martial, being so measured and stately. Miss McVicker has, however, a good voice, and a style which could readily be made effective in comedy. The charming little lady had a stalwart and vociferous champion in Miss Fanny Morant, who was the Emilia of the occasion. The personation would have been a good one but for a marked tendency to overact, and especially to overshout. The part is the most agreeable in the play; drawn with a firmer hand and better purpose than Desdemona, who after all is but a runaway, love-smitten school-girl. Shakespeare never selected a more disagreeable topic than that of the Moor. The characters exhibited the two extremes of human life—rogues and fools. Emilia is a far fairer type, and deserved more and better study. The Brabantio of Mr. Mark Smith was an extremely careful and meritorious performance,—finely traced yet neither monotonous nor overdone. It had just the proper degree of force. There is generally a lack of force in the company which does not disappear in the changing of scenery, or the splendid surroundings of a gorgeous theatre. These adjuncts, indeed, rather increase the distance between artist and scene-painter, and make the contrast greater. By force we mean concert of action, suggesting, as such is apt to do, a clearly-defined ideal. Of mere vigor there is always enough. Neither the ladies nor the gentlemen of Mr. Booth's company are afraid to use their voices. But they falter in the greater necessity of using their brains. Every one seems to be depressed with the notion that he or she is playing a star part, and to be profoundly conscious of its importance. In one or two instances it may be difficult to eradicate this tendency, for where an artist has merged into a star it is almost impossible to translate him back to the better profession of an actor.

This is particularly the case with Mr. Edwin Adams, whose natural gifts we all remember with pleasure. It is quite impossible to think they have been in any way improved by his various provincial trips and engagements. His manner has become overwhelmingly grave, and his voice, although rotund and good, has lost much of the richness which formerly was its most pleasing characteristic. There is not a particle of repressed passion in Mr. Adams' reading of this part or any other. It is the broadest sort of scene painting, and manufactured from tradition, just as conspicuously as are the grooves and trap doors and other pieces of stage carpentry. It is in the business of the stage that actors are constantly belittling themselves. The theory that I must go there and do something, and you must go somewhere and do another thing, simply because it has been customary to have these things done in the days of Garrick, or some other thinker who invented them, is broad enough in one sense, but it narrows down an actor's individual invention to the smallest point. It is well known that nearly all the business of the stage is patented or copyrighted or otherwise preserved. Mr. Edwin Booth comes properly by the "business" of his father, but Mr. Adams comes rightly by no business at all. He ought to think for himself, and not imitate. The country towns where "stars" are most in vogue are hotbeds of imitation. Every one says to himself So-and-So has made a hit here; he was a vile impostor, whose name should never have appeared on the bills. I must show the people that I, too, can make a hit—and he does so—by imitating his predecessor. In this way is witnessed the dreadful spectacle of a good actor becoming thoroughly bad. Every word is an unvocal and unnatural effort. In straining at a gnat he swallows a camel, and judging from the fearful tones which generally ensue the animal must have disagreed with him. We have selected Mr. Edwin Adams as the peg on which to hang these remarks, not because they all apply to him, but because he is by far the most prominent young actor of the day. It was with no ordinary pleasure that we attended the first performance of "Romeo and Juliet." We had not seen Mr. Adams for many years, and naturally anticipated a great treat; for as our memory served us there was no character in the range of the drama which, by reason of its genial gallantry and unselfish partisanship, so became the gentleman as that of Mercutio. We were disillusioned. The Queen Mab speech did for us. That bright and gossamer-like fiction was recited with convulsive gyrations of the body. The first line was given in the voice of a clergyman giving out a text. The rest was in the tone of the Parish beadle. It was a humane act on the part of Tybalt to dispatch this deep-throated trifler. Indeed, when both were disposed of there was a flutter of relief throughout the house. We are dwelling too long on a single topic—and that somewhat technical—but we must still add a word more. Mr. Adams has not only wronged himself during his absence, but he is the cause of wronging others. As we had occasion to remark when writing of the "Marble Heart," the gentlemen is burdened with imitators. Our purpose being simply to direct attention to a fault which is becoming painfully apparent, we shall not more directly refer to people who may be injured by harsh criticism. Mr. Adams may if he be so disposed take a hint, but we are certain he cannot derive any injury at our hands. Before ceasing, we may remark that Mr. Booth is comparatively free from the faults we have referred to. His voice, although sorely tried, is still soft, pliable and persuasive. Without disturbing the steady march of the lines, he gives to the poetry a personal interest, and his acting, too, in "Othello" is by no means so conventional as it was in "Romeo and Juliet." Some of the points made by the tragedian are new. There is, in short, an evident perception of an intellectual opportunity. It would be strange were it otherwise. In the preparation of such a work much is demanded from the management. Mr. Booth has thoroughly justified the position he has claimed for his theatre. The mise en scene of "Othello" is not so perfect in picturesqueness as that of the previous Shakespearian revival, but it is more than good. It would be in vain to look for a similar stage or such scenery at any other house. The landing of Othello at Cyprus seemed to us to be somewhat overdone, especially in an architectural point of view, but with this exception the whole idea is harmonious and captivating. The costumes and appointments are of the best kind. Nothing, in fact, has been neglected to make the production a lasting success, and a new and creditable addition to the select and classic repertoire of the theatre.

THE METROPOLIS.

New-York as the Capital of the Republic.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, April 17.

One of the considerations in favor of the removal of the Capitol from Washington to New-York is yet to be mentioned; nor is it one of inconsiderable importance in a pecuniary point of view. The incompetency of the Washington newspaper Press to give a correct and full report of the proceedings of Congress necessitated the publication of the Globe, at an expense of from $200,000 to $500,000 a year, at the cost of the Government. There is no probability that any Washington newspaper will ever be equal to the task of publishing the proceedings, and the maintenance of the Globe may be regarded as a continuous burden upon the people till a change is made in the location of the Capitol.

The Intelligencer at one time affected to give a report of the doings of Congress, but that was years ago, in the time of GALES & SEATON, and before Congress had become the verbally voluminous body it now is. Yet the Intelligencer was not equal to the work of getting out even a respectable abstract, the morning after a day's session, much less was it able to print a speech in full, be its importance ever so great.

Now, were the Capitol removed to New-York, as, for reasons already stated, it ought to be, the Herald, the Tribune and the TIMES would become to Congress what the London Times is to the British Parliament, and a complete report of the proceedings and speeches upon a measure of great national interest would appear the following day, with editorial comments, and excite no more wonder or astonishment than do the triple sheets of the London Times which spread before the British people the doings of their Parliament almost as soon as they have taken place.

It is obvious that, with such newspaper facilities and enterprise, the publication of a special record like the Globe would be a folly, and there would be at least one source of corruption dried up. Nor would Senators and Representatives have the privilege of revising their speeches or printing unspoken words. What they said would be reported and printed as it was said. Every man would stand before the people on his open and public record. The influence of such an arrangement would be wholesome upon legislation and legislators. Members of Congress, conscious that they would not have the liberty of entering newspaper offices, rewriting and changing their speeches for effect upon their constituents, would be cautious how they committed themselves upon measures before them, and be more considerate in choice of language and methods of thought. Their cautiousness would be increased, also, by the knowledge that an independent Press was behind them, and were as able as themselves, working with keen and ready pens, to criticise and condemn their words and acts, and approve or denounce them to the people. In brief, look at it as we may, the advantages of removing the Capitol of the nation to its monetary, commercial and intellectual centre, are increased.

The History of General Longstreet's Letter.

A writer in the Banner of the South, (Father RYAN's paper,) under date of Alexandria, Va., March 24, says:

"And now about that letter; and what I now say, I have direct, as spoken by LONGSTREET himself, when in an adjoining county to this, last year, visiting a valued friend. He says that after the war closed he was in New-Orleans, and also many other Confederate Generals, and on a certain occasion, being in conversation with some of his brother officers, it was thought that they were looked upon with distrust and hate by the United States authorities, that a letter written by some one or more of those on the subject would be a benefit to the South. LONGSTREET being the ranking General, was pitched upon to write the letter. General LONGSTREET says he thought some expression from him, or all of them, accepting the situation, would be of benefit to the South. He says the letter was written by himself, and afterward handed around among his brother officers for their consideration, some of whom approved altogether, some altered some of the expressions, and the letter was then returned to him (General LONGSTREET) for publication. It was published, and you know the storm it raised; and now comes the disgraceful part of the proceeding. Those very Generals who approved of that letter slunk from our loved General, and left him alone to bear the brunt of the reproach called up to the South by that letter. Not one has had the manliness to acknowledge that he knew anything of it; and General LONGSTREET, with that doggedness of disposition which rendered his corps invincible, said he was able to bear it all, and would not murmur, that that letter had caused trouble enough, let it stop with him.

Nor did he depart from this determination, except on one occasion, just after the letter was published, he met one of the Generals referred to above on the street, who immediately crossed to the other side, not wishing to recognize him. A few days afterward, as General LONGSTREET sat in the St. Charles Hotel in conversation with some friends, this General came in but did not recognize LONGSTREET; smarting under this insult, he called to the former, and said: "I wish to say to these gentlemen in your presence, that you were one of the men who proposed this letter, and the last one who read it before publication, and as much in the mud as I in the mire."

The Condition of Bishop Duggan.

From the Chicago Tribune, April 17.

On Wednesday evening Bishop DUGGAN, whose condition had by no means improved, was removed by his friends from his residence and taken to St. Louis, where it is hoped his health may be restored.

It may not be out of place to say that the affairs of the diocese are in rather an anomalous condition. The Bishop of Chicago is a corporation created by an act of the Legislature. There is no ecclesiastical authority to appoint an administrator to manage the affairs of that corporation, so there can be legal transfer of property or other like business performed. No Bishop of Chicago can be appointed during the lifetime of Bishop DUGGAN, unless he resign, and he is not in a condition to do so, even if willing. This circumstance adds additional embarrassment to the affair.

THE CANAAN CHILD MURDER.

Trial of Josephine Brown—She is Charged with Being Accessory Before the Fact.

From Our Own Reporter.

HUDSON, Monday, April 19, 1869.

Another chapter in the Canaan child-murder horror commenced here to-day. In order to bring once more to mind the Canaan murder, we herewith append a résumé of the affair. On the night of Tuesday, Dec. 5, 1867, the usually quiet town of Canaan, Columbia County, a building was discovered to be on fire. The neighbors hastened to the spot, and speedily quenched the flames. The occupants of the building were JOSEPH BROWN, the executed man, his wife JOSEPHINE, and a little girl, named ANGELINE STEWART, daughter of a widow woman who lived in Dayton, Ohio, who had been brought from that place by BROWN and his wife, as was alleged at the time, as company for Mrs. BROWN. It had been given out that this girl, aged about 12 years, was the daughter of the BROWNS, and the neighbors believed the statement. On the night of the fire the neighbors broke open the front door of the house, and proceeded to institute a search, to see if all the fire had been quenched, when, in raking over a heap of rubbish in a pantry, the charred remains of ANGELINE STEWART were found. BROWN and his wife at this time were absent from the house, having proceeded in the early part of the evening to the residence of one Mr. WILLIAMS, for the purpose of spending the evening. Both Mr. and Mrs. BROWN were the last persons to get to the fire, showing, as was alleged on the trial of Mr. BROWN, a reluctance to reach the house too soon, for fear that the damnable work of destroying the little child might not have been accomplished. The pantry door was found tightly closed, so tight that, as one of the witnesses testified at the trial, it could not be opened by the ordinary hand-pulling, and the partition had finally to be knocked down. Over the remains of the burned child were found eight bushels and a half of rubbish by actual measurement, when it was proven that three sides of the pantry walls were stone and the fourth (or partition side) did not fall upon the body, as the remains were found in the opposite corner. The natural inference was, that the child had been first strangled to death, then placed in the pantry, a portion of the pantry shelves split up to make a fire, and the body afterward burned. In this way the large amount of rubbish could be accounted for and no other. When BROWN came to the house on the night of the fire the body had been brought out doors and laid on the ground, and he passed it before entering the building, and yet proceeded to the pantry and made the inquiry, "Where is my little girl?" He shortly afterward feigned fainting and was taken to the house of a gentleman living near by, where he soon came to. A Coroner's inquest was held on the body and a burial permit granted. BROWN had been a resident of Canaan but a short time before the fire, and had leased furnished rooms for one month, upon his arrival from Dayton, Ohio, and it appeared upon his trial that he had received a policy of insurance upon the life of the little girl for $5,000 at Cincinnati, good for three months only, and also made application for a similar policy of $5,000 in the Hartford Life Insurance Company, soon after he reached Canaan. After the murder of the girl he made immediate application for the $5,000 to the Hartford Company, and this application as the murderer of ANGELINE STEWART. The Hartford Company sent on to Danbury, Conn., one Dr. CARNY, a special agent, in company with several other physicians, for the purpose of making an examination of the child, who they believed had come to her death by foul means. The body was exhumed, the result of which was the discovery of a cord or piece of cloth around the neck of the deceased, and an indentation around the neck of some considerable depth, which fastened the conviction in their minds that the child had been strangled before heat was applied to the person. This theory was sworn to and sustained on the trial. This led to the arrest of BROWN and his wife, and the former was tried, found guilty and executed on the 30th day of May last. Since that execution Mrs. BROWN has been confined in the jail in this city, waiting trial. This trial she ought to have had ere this, but circumstances prevented, and it would not take place now were it not for the determination of Attorney-General CHAMPLIN, District-Attorney LANGLEY and County Treasurer R. F. CLARK, who have done everything possible to secure the attendance of witnesses, and guaranteeing expenses. The trial of Mrs. BROWN is to be conducted on behalf of the people by the Attorney-General and District-Attorney and by Mr. R. E. ANDREWS for the prisoner. At the outset it should be distinctly understood that the trial is not to be on a charge of willful murder, but on that of "being an accessory before the fact," a crime of equal magnitude, and punishable in the same manner as that of murder. The effect of this, it seems to be generally agreed, will be to strengthen the chances for a conviction.

The trial commenced to-day at 12 o'clock noon, in the Circuit Court and Court of Oyer and Terminer, Hon. CHARLES R. INGALLS, presiding Judge, and as did the trial of JOSEPH BROWN, so does this excite a great deal of public interest.

At 4 P. M. the regular panel of jurors had been exhausted, in addition to thirty-six extra jurors, and even at that time but ten had been obtained, when another panel of ten was ordered by Judge INGALLS.

Mrs. STEWART, the mother of the murdered child, has been in the court-room all the afternoon. Mrs. BROWN sits by the side of her counsel, and seems to feel that her position at the present time is far different than when she sat by the side of her husband at his trial. Then she wore a strong expression of countenance, and laughed at the idea of her conviction. She was also bold and defiant in her manner. To-day a casual observer can detect a softness of feeling and a nervous look. She is certainly keenly alive as to the result of the trial. Her physical appearance is decidedly far better than when your reporter met her in the Court-room one year ago. As then, so now, public feeling is against her, and where it was expected that no jury could be obtained in Columbia County to try her case it is safe to conclude that upon the opening of the Court to-morrow, a full list of jurors will be present and the taking of evidence will be commenced. During this afternoon Mrs. BROWN was compelled to visit her cell to indulge in her usual potation of morphine, without which she would be perfectly helpless.

THE SEVENTH REGIMENT.

Anniversary Reception of the Seventh in Commemoration of their Departure to the Seat of War—Presentation of Colors.

The spacious armory of the Seventh Regiment, over Tompkins Market, was thronged last evening with a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen, who literally overflowed the galleries, and made it impossible almost to stir in the smaller rooms. The main hall or drill-room was kept partially clear for the movements of the battalion. The occasion which drew together so large a crowd was the presentation of a stand of regimental colors to the Seventh Regiment, and a grand promenade concert and reception in commemoration of the anniversary of the departure of the regiment in 1861 for Washington. As was stated in the TIMES of Sunday, the entire armory was decorated with a profusion of natural flowers, in garlands, festoons and grand masses, with a most bewildering confusion of color, a beautiful scenic effect and a volume of perfume almost intoxicating. The crowd being so dense, it was very difficult to see which of the prominent officers of the National Guard and regular services had attended, though we noticed Major-General ALEX. SHALER and the First Division Staff, Major-General ANDERSON, Major-General DURYEE, Major-General HAMBLIN, Brigadier-Generals BURGER, WARD, POSTLEY, Brigadier-General TWEED, of the Governor's Staff; Major KENT, of the Washington Gray Cavalry; Colonel WM. F. MOLLER, Aid to Governor HOFFMAN, and many others of note.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock the regiment assembled under arms, and the usual routine of a dress parade was gone through with. As soon as the necessary preliminary arrangements had been perfected, His Honor A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor of the City, advanced and presented the colors to the regiment in the following speech:

COLONEL EMMONS CLARK, AND GENTLEMEN OF THIS VETERAN REGIMENT: The mutual relations existing between you and the corporate authorities, as well as those between you and the nation, are comprehended by the occurrence that collects so brilliant an assemblage in this armory, which is at once your social club-room and your school of discipline. Eight years ago to-night you began your first march to the National Capital in defence of the Union and Constitution, and across the very threshhold of those gates of civil war which mad rebellion then swung open. That occasion and its memories are still so vivid to us all, that this mere reference carries to every heart eulogy and honor. Many times afterward you aided in protecting the National Capital; like as for half a century, parts, at least, of your present organization have protected this great Metropolis during times of impulsive, riotous rebellion. And your fame has become national! Your relations toward the corporate authorities, whom I have the honor to-night to represent, have also been distinguished and are distinguishing. City records narrate many gifts of colors to your military organization or some of its component parts. Names as honored as those of De Witt Clinton and Philip Hone have associated themselves with presentation of colors that you now own, as gifts from a grateful city. It may be your proud boast that like as the sturdy oak which breasts all storms can count its age by annular rings, so you can estimate your honorable years by the many stands of colors which you have during the past half century received. To this Metropolis its volunteer standing army is a necessity of security. Even its silent presence is ever a potent weapon in the hands of law and order, and a perpetual menace to the tumultuously disposed. In now presenting these colors, the corporate authorities do, therefore, simply but worthily symbol popular regard for representatives of that standing army. It is their municipal boast and pride to give you always the best quarters and the best civic welcome in return for your volunteer services. Less onerous is even large taxation for promoting the security that you and kindred organizations sacrificingly present to the City, than taxation sometimes imposed through the destructive voice of tumult. The corporate authorities trust soon to add to this gift of flags the gift of a site for a larger and more central armory. Receive, then, Sir, this stand of colors, representing those of State, City and regiment. Nor State nor City shall ever tremble for their safety or honor while in this regimental keeping.

In reply to Mayor HALL, Colonel CLARK said:

To possess the respect and confidence of the constituted authorities, and to secure the favor and approbation of the public, are objects worthy the ambition of citizen soldiers. But objects so desirable are not won in a day, or without earnest, arduous labor. To this end, excellence in drill and discipline are absolutely indispensable, as well as the utmost promptness in responding to the calls of the proper authority, whenever the peace of the City or the property of its citizens are in danger, or when foes, foreign or domestic, threaten the safety of the State or the nation. Nor is this all that is necessary to the permanent popularity and prosperity of a military organization. It must confine itself strictly to its legitimate military duties; it must abstain from all active interest in those affairs upon which good citizens differ, and it must impartially support the Chief Magistrates of the City and State, of whatsoever party or creed, in the enforcement of laws duly enacted, and in the preservation of the public peace. Last, but not least, its members must possess, and on all occasions exhibit, the attributes of the gentleman as well as the soldier. That the efforts of the officers and members of the Seventh Regiment, during the last half century, to establish and maintain a military organizaeion of this character have not been altogether in vain, must be inferred from your complimentary allusions to its past services, and to the place it now holds in the hearts of the people, and in the estimation of the City authorities. This elegant stand of colors, the gift of the City of New-York, which, as its honored Chief Magistrate, you have this night presented to the Seventh Regiment, is received by its officers and members with hearts overflowing with gratitude. To merit this munificent testimonial of public approbation shall be our earnest effort. In the future, as in the past, may this Regiment be found ever ready to defend the honor of our beloved City, and to protect the happy homes of its people.

The colors are of the usual pattern and similar to those already presented by the City, and very handsomely made. When the ceremony of presentation had been concluded, the entire armory was thrown open to the promenaders, when a general movement was made by all toward the officers' room, where had been placed Mr. NAST's fine picture representing the scene which was being celebrated by the guests. This picture is ten feet by six, and gives a graphic idea of the appearance of Broadway near the Metropolitan Hotel when Major-General ANDERSON reviewed the Seventh Regiment as it passed down the thoroughfare on the way to the steamer. The picture is an exceedingly clever one, both in the treatment of the scene and the disposition of the figures. We have no space to-night for any critical mention of the merits of Mr. NAST's greatest success, but the many encomiums bestowed upon it showed the appreciation of those who were fortunate enough to get a glimpse of the picture.

As there was great difficulty of locomotion last evening, the armory will be open to-night for the inspection of the public.

Anniversary of the Signing of the Protest.

Last evening the three hundred and fortieth anniversary of the signing of the Protest against the errors of the Romish Church was celebrated at Cooper Institute. The hall was well filled. Mr. WM. D. MCKINLEY presided, and after stating the purpose for which the meeting had been called, gave a brief history of the spread of civil and religious liberty in England. To Protestantism, he said, our own country was greatly indebted, and he was glad to know that it was widening and extending its influence.

Mr. WM. A. MASKER was then introduced. He thought that the gift of the Bible to the world was not due, as somebody asserted, to the printing press. It was due to the Reformation. LUTHER had given us the Bible. We had to thank him for that.

Rev. Dr. S. H. TYNG was the next speaker. He said he believed Papists and bastard Papists grew, like the frogs of the Nile, from mud. The marsh of indifference produced them. He honored the Roman Catholic Church. He looked on it as a noble example of man's intelligence. He hoped the Church would go on spreading light around it. He bespoke for it the largest liberty—the same liberty as he himself enjoyed, but he protested against being bottled up and carried along with it. In conclusion he besought the younger portion of his audience to have nothing to do with men who reviled Protestantism.

After a few remarks from Rev. H. D. NORTHRUP, the meeting adjourned.

BILLIARDS.

The Amateur Tournament in Brooklyn—Various Notes.

The billiard tournament arranged by Mr. SAMUELS for the amateur billiardists of Long Island was commenced in the large hall of the Washington Billiard Rooms, in Washington-street, Brooklyn, last night, in the presence of a highly respectable assemblage of ladies and gentlemen, Mr. SAMUELS acting as master of ceremonies and Dr. JONES delivering a very appropriate address on the occasion. The tourney is for the amateur championship of Long Island and a splendid gold medal for the first prize, the second and third prizes being gold and silver-mounted cues.

The contests were inaugurated at 8 P. M., at which hour Messrs. DODGE and KORF presented themselves as the first to enter the lists in a game of 300 points in four-ball caroms on a Phelan carom table. The game which followed was rather one sided, DODGE winning easily, as will be seen by the appended score:

DODGE—0, 12, 7, 8, 4, 32, 33, 13, 15, 20, 19, 0, 6, 2, 36, 5, 8, 2, 0, 5, 5, 6, 15, 4, 28, 10—300.

KORF—14, 0, 6, 9, 3, 10, 10, 0, 7, 10, 0, 3, 0, 0, 2, 6, 0, 2, 2, 2, 4, 2, 32, 6—124.

Average of winner, 11 and over.

The second game of the series was between BYRON WHARTON and Mr. VANDEWALKER, and it proved to be the most interesting and best-played game of the evening, WHARTON winning by fifteen points. The score was as follows:

WHARTON—0, 4, 0, 0, 24, 21, 9, 5, 44, 8, 3, 0, 3, 0, 13, 0, 5, 3, 0, 10, 13, 8, 2, 18, 4, 17, 13, 10, 6, 0, 6, 0, 25, 12, 3, 11—300.

VANDEWALKER—0, 3, 6, 11, 39, 0, 3, 8, 3, 5, 21, 0, 4, 3, 24, 6, 13, 12, 4, 8, 9, 0, 27, 10, 4, 0, 3, 2, 13, 11, 7, 4, 0, 5, 7, 4—285.

The winner's average was about 9½.

The third and last game of the evening was between ROGERS and SPROULE. ROGERS is reckoned among the best of the contestants; SPROULE's play was nearly equal. The score was as follows:

ROGERS—0, 12, 7, 0, 4, 16, 2, 2, 8, 0, 0, 0, 10, 0, 10, 33, 5, 0, 9, 2, 26, 0, 2, 11, 10, 15, 6, 0, 0, 8, 0, 7, 24, 4, 15, 0, 10, 12, 5, 0, 7, 5, 7, 4, 2—300.

SPROULE—0, 2, 2, 8, 0, 13, 5, 15, 0, 2, 2, 9, 4, 4, 2, 20, 0, 14, 0, 2, 0, 2, 8, 6, 0, 9, 9, 11, 2, 16, 0, 7, 0, 9, 0, 16, 3, 11, 15, 2, 0, 2, 2, 0—237.

The winner's average was but a little over 6. The game will be resumed to-night at 8 o'clock.

The match at French caroms, 300 points up, for $250 a side, between JOHN DEERY and MELVIN FOSTER, which was to have been played in private, will now take place in public. It will be the chief attraction of the benefit to be tendered MICHAEL GEARY on Friday night next, at Irving Hall.

The match between WILLIAM GOLDTHWAIT and MAURICE DAILY, 1,200 points up, American caroms, originally made for $150 a side, but increased on Saturday last to $250, with the privilege granted DAILY of making it $500 a side, will be played in private at Captain BOYLE's room immediately after the close of the grand tournament for the championship of America, which will begin at Irving Hall April 26, and continue afternoon and evening until May 10.

JOHN MCDEVITT arrived in this City from Chicago on Saturday. He comes on to attend the tournament. THOMAS FOLEY, HENRY RHINES and PETER SNYDER will reach here from the same city to-day.

The attempt to substitute CYRILLE for JOSEPH DION having failed, it may be assumed that, despite his recent letter of declination, the latter will be one of the competitors in the tourney. Having, when he entered the lists, contracted to play matches with RUDOLPHE, SNYDER, FOSTER, DANIELS, DEERY, RHINES and GOLDTHWAIT, there is no plea under which the representative player of the Canadas can now honorably withdraw. This has been explained to him, and he may be expected on.

Brooklyn Common Council.

The Brooklyn Board of Aldermen met yesterday afternoon, Aldermen BERGEN, President, in the chair.

The Street Commissioner sent in a communication, in which he stated that the contractor for removing dead animals had refused to remove any more, owing to the city having refused to pay him for said work; he therefore asked that he be empowered to remove the dead animals and offal of the city at a rate not to exceed the amount now paid—$600 per month.

A proposition to authorize the Street Commissioner to have the work done was referred to the Special Committee.

An ordinance was adopted for the prohibition of velocipede riding on the sidewalks of the city.

The salary of the Assistant Corporation Counsel was increased from $1,200 to $2,500 per annum.

A contract with the Citizens' Gaslight Company for the lighting of the street lamps for one year at $3 25 per 1,000 feet, was approved.

The Board then adjourned.

Telegraphic Communication with Nevada.

The following telegram was received by Mayor HALL yesterday:

HAMILTON, Nevada, April 16.

Hon. A. Oakey Hall, Mayor of New-York:

The citizens of Hamilton offer words of greeting upon the completion of the telegraph line to this city, and express the hope that they may soon be connected by rail.

P. S. HYMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

The Mayor, in reply, sent the following:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, April 19, 1869.

To P. S. Hyman, President Board of Trustees:

Struck by your lightning, the Metropolis hopes soon to be pushed by your steam. The Metropolis congratulates Hamilton upon the achievement.

Long may intelligence flash along every highway, connecting, practically, Asia and Europe, and to open which was practically the dream of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor of New-York.

Ball of Company B, Seventy-first Regiment.

Company B, Seventy-first Regiment, gave a pleasant masquerade hop last night at their Armory, corner Thirteenth-street and University-place. The commander of the company is Captain A. J. WEBBER, who was present, together with Lieutenant-Colonel ROCKAFELLER, commanding the regiment, and a number of military guests. The Committee of Management were Messrs. Richard Rockafeller, John Hagadorn, Frederic Richards, Theodore Speck, and Wm. E. King. Two comic processions, called Gibbs' Battery and the Buffalo Hunters figured in the hall at the opening of proceedings.

Base Ball.

Yesterday afternoon the Capitoline grounds were the scene of an interesting contest at base ball, the occasion being the first appearance of the celebrated Atlantic Club in a match, and the début of the Atlantic Nine for 1869 in their new uniforms. Their opponents were the Alpha Club, of Brooklyn, an organization of amateur players. The game began at 3:30 P. M., the Atlantics taking the field without PRATT or SMITH, ZETTLIN pitching, and PIKE playing second base; and he played it well, too, and batted finely. The Atlantics led their opponents in the first inning 11 to 1, and came out the victors by the total score of 42 to 11.

The Rogers Murder—A Habeas Corpus for Robinson.

We announced on Saturday last that Mr. JOHN D. TOWNSEND had applied for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of JAMES MAHER, alias Robinson, the vagrant accused by DELANOY with being concerned in the murder of CHARLES M. ROGERS. The application was made to Judge CARDOZO, and of course was granted. The writ, which is made returnable on Wednesday next, has been served on Captain CAFFREY, who will produce the prisoner and the cause of his detention at the time mentioned. It is stated that District-Attorney GARVIN has given no directions to resist the application, and it is therefore inferred that the prisoner will be discharged.

Tammany Society.

The annual election of the Columbian Order took place yesterday evening with the following result: Sachems, A. Oakey Hall, Matthew T. Brennan, Isaac Bell, John J. Bradley, Charles G. Cornell, Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., Richard B. Connolly, E. B. Hart, George W. McLean, James B. Nicholson, Samuel B. Garvin, Joseph Dowling, Peter B. Sweeny; Treasurer, Henry Vandewater; Secretary, Wilson Small; Sagamore, George W. Roome; Wiskinkie, Stephen C. Duryea.

WM. M. TWEED, already elected Grand Sachem, was installed yesterday evening.

The Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes.

The first public exhibition of the scholars of the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes took place at Allemania Hall, No. 18 East Sixteenth-street, last evening, and was attended by a select audience. The object of this institution is to introduce the articulate method as practiced in Germany, by the establishment of the eclectic system of instruction. The exhibition last evening proved beyond all controversy that those who are either congenital deaf mutes, or who, in childhood, lost their hearing, can be taught to articulate or to read from the lips. Dr. MARK BLUMENTHAL, President of the Society having charge of the institution, opened the proceedings in an address of welcome, after which the scholars gave an exhibition of their capabilities. Judge DALY, Judge CARDOZO and others made speeches and the exercises terminated.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

We have received a card from FREDERIC B. SWIFT, of No. 234 Broadway, alleging that injustice was done him by a report of his arrest for swindling soldiers out of bounties. It is but justice to him to state that the two charges first made against him, by PATRICK GLEESON and JOHN MULDOON, were explained to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, and to state also that he is now held in $2,500 bail to answer to five other charges, the examination of which will take place this morning.

The Fifth Regiment, (German,) Colonel MEYER, was reviewed yesterday afternoon by Mayor HALL, in front of the City Hall. The regiment turned out with full ranks and presented a creditable appearance.

On Wednesday and Friday evenings of this week Professor WORCESTER will present his admirable stereoscopic views of the East, and of other parts of the World, in the Forty-third-street M. E. Church, between Seventh and Eighth avenues. The entertainment will be given for the benefit of the Sabbath School of the church.

WM. STEWART, of No. 157 Cherry-street, aged 12 years, picked up a piece of sulphur on the Battery, and put it in his pocket. Combustion soon after occurred, and the boy had his legs and hands severely burned. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

JOHN W. PALMER, of No. 44 Hanover-street, Baltimore, was yesterday sent to Bellevue Hospital, having been found in the street suffering from delirium tremens.

On Saturday last ANNIE ROGERS, of No. 107 Bleecker-street, was taken to Bellevue Hospital, suffering from the effects of opium. ANNIE had been an opium-eater for several years, and the drug so prostrated her system that death ensued yesterday. Coroner FLYNN was notified to hold an inquest.

Mrs. SABINA BROCKWAY, of No. 38 Oak-street, attempted suicide yesterday by jumping off Pier No. 30 East River, but she was rescued by some citizens, after considerable exertion. Intemperance and domestic infelicity furnished the motive for the act. She was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

MARY SMITH, aged 63 years, fell down stairs yesterday at No. 950 Third-avenue, and fractured a leg.

The case against HERMAN, the bounty swindler, was transferred yesterday from the Eighth Judicial District Court to the United States Circuit Court. The time is not set for trial.

ALEX. BOLEN, a German, fell through the hatchway of HOLLIHAN's distillery in Fifty-third-street, near Ninth-avenue, on Sunday night, when he was dangerously injured.

JACOB ZENN was found dead in his bed yesterday at No. 108 Forsyth-st.

PETER MCNALLY, of No. 242 Monroe-street, fell from the roof of the new building corner of Fifth-avenue and Forty-ninth-street, when he sustained such serious injuries as to necessitate his removal to St. Luke's Hospital.

A lecture will be delivered to workingmen and their families, this evening, in the Alexander Mission Chapel, Nos. 7 and 9 King-street, by Rev. Dr. JOHN HALL. Subject—"Hands."

Last evening, the team of Mr. A. CHESTER ran away in Eighth-avenue, near One Hundred and Forty-sixth-street, and collided with the wagon of Mr. PETER M. SUYDAM, entirely demolishing it, and throwing out Mr. SUYDAM and his driver, both of whom were seriously injured. Mr. SUYDAM was carried insensible to his residence, No. 27 West Thirty-eighth-street, to which place the driver was also removed. Mr. CHESTER was so fortunate as to escape with slight bruises.

GEO. LAWRENCE, 5 years of age, residing at No. 641 Eleventh-street, was run over last evening at the corner of Forty-seventh-street and Eleventh-avenue by a butcher cart, and was instantly killed. PATRICK CRONIN, the driver, was arrested and locked up in the Forty-seventh-street Station-house, to await the result of the investigation to be held by Coroner SCHIRMER this morning.

Yesterday afternoon the roof and part of the building on the rear of the lot No. 90 Oliver-street tumbled in, but fortunately without injury to any one, as the tenants had all moved out.

It was rumored yesterday afternoon that the notorious butcher cart thief, STEVE BOYLE, also renowned as the murderer of the Michigan Sheriff, who was lately sent from this City to State Prison in such delirious haste, has escaped from the Clinton Prison. It will be remembered that he begged for his term of twenty years, in preference to being returned to Michigan, and at the same time announced that he would have no difficulty in escaping from prison whenever he should choose to attempt the feat.

LAWRENCE SMITH, of No. 507 East Sixteenth-street, had his leg broken last evening while scuffling with one HINES. He was taken home.

Brooklyn.

Last evening, about 8 o'clock, a difficulty occurred at the tenement-house No. 99 Water-street, in which HENRY DAVIS and JOHN MCLAUGHLIN assaulted JOSEPH DESOTO. In the fight which occurred, DESOTO, as alleged, bit off the half of DAVIS' right ear. All the parties were arrested and locked up in the Forty-second-Precinct Station-house to await examination.

A meeting of the Special Committee of the Brooklyn Common Common Council, in relation to the affairs of the Prospect Park Commissioners, was held at the City Hall last evening, at which several witnesses were examined, among them Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR, the Comptroller of the Park, and Mr. JAMES SHARKEY, the contractor for stonework. The latter testified to the fact that he would have contracted for the stonework for $24,000, whereas it was let to a Massachusetts party for $33,400. On the suggestion of the Mayor, the examination was adjourned until Friday evening next.

Insect Powder.

HOW TO TELL THE GENUINE ARTICLE.—Prof. E. LYON while traveling in Asia, discovered a flower, which, when powdered, is sure death to every kind of Insect, from a Cockroach to a Fly. He protected his discovery by letters-patent, Government medals, &c., put his signature upon every flask of the article, and named it LYON'S MAGNETIC INSECT POWDER. He imparted his secret to no one but his successor.

Purchasers of Insect Powder—and it is used in almost every house—must see to it that they are not deceived by worthless imitations and counterfeits. The signature of E. Lyon is the purchaser's guarantee. Look sharp for it, and buy no Insect Powder that does not bear it. It may be had of Druggists and Family Stores, at 25 cents per flask.

The Purest and Safest.

The efficacy of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where this marvelous tonic has borne down all opposition and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until at last the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number have candidly admitted that the pharmacopœia of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. To use the language of a venerable physician of New-York, "the Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be so for centuries to come. The magnates of science recognize its merits; and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses is proved by its vast and ever-increasing sales.—Advertisement.

This process adds three times to the durability of goods so plated, at an additional expense of only 20 per cent. above our Standard Plate. All spoons and forks stamped "1847, Rogers Bros. XII." and with our trade mark, are plated as above.

We also call attention to the new patent which is warranted more durable than any heretofore offered, and is pronounced by Dr. S. Dana Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, and other eminent medical authorities, to be "perfectly free from anything poisonous or injurious, and to preserve water pure," which is not the case with ice pitchers not porcelain-lined.

We are also introducing a valuable novelty for a BAKING DISH, which is porcelain-lined and fire-proof, with an elegant silver-plated receiver, to be used when ready for the table, which will retain the heat at least twice as long as ordinary dishes.

WILL BE PUBLISHED
ON SATURDAY, 24th:

"TALE OF A PHYSICIAN; OR, THE SEEDS AND FRUITS OF CRIME."

A wonderfully interesting book. Society is unveiled. Individual miseries and circumstantial crimes are brought to light. The reader is introduced to distinguished men and noted women in New-Orleans, Cuba, Paris, and New-York. The startling trials and tragical events of their lives are truthfully recorded. This volume is as attractive as the most thrilling romance, and yet it explains the producing causes of theft, murder, suicide, fœticide, infanticide, and the other nameless evils which afflict society and alarm all friends of humanity. It is, therefore, a good book for everybody.

Published in fine style, and for sale by WILLIAM WHITE & CO., Boston; also, by the AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY, No. 131 Nassau-st., New-York. Price, $1. Postage 16 cents. Liberal discounts to the trade.

No religious family can afford to be without these books as guides in daily family devotions.

These books are somewhat after the plan of the well-known "Morning and Evening Exercises," by Jay; but in originality and vigor of thought, very much the superior.

There is an earnestness about all that Mr. Spurgeon says which goes to the very heart of his reader's religious experience.

Perhaps no man living is better fitted to prepare books of this nature, which are calculated to warm the hearts and make the family devotions of interest and profit.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Stagnant Water on Vacant Lots—Infected Vessels and the Commissioners of Emigration—Cattle Driving.

The Metropolitan Board of Health met yesterday afternoon, President G. B. LINCOLN in the chair.

A petition, numerously signed, was received from the residents of the Nineteenth Ward, to the effect that certain vacant lots within the limits of the Fifth and Fourth avenues, and Fifty-ninth and Sixty-sixth-streets, should be immediately drained. It was stated that there is a depth of from ten to fifteen feet of stagnant water on each lot, which must produce disease and death, unless removed. The counsel was instructed to prepare an order compelling the owners of the lots to drain them at once.

An anonymous communication was received, complaining of very offensive odors proceeding from the works of the Metropolitan Gas Company. The statement was fully indorsed by the Sanitary Superintendent.

It was resolved to authorize the Sanitary Superintendent to employ four inspectors, to keep surveillance over all the gas works in the City, day and night, and to report nuisances connected therewith to the Board, promptly.

A preamble and resolutions were adopted calling upon the Commissioners of Emigration to make adequate arrangements for taking care of persons arriving at this port who have been exposed to infection or contagion of the ship fever and small-pox, and offering to coöperate with the Commissioners in this matter.

A permit was granted to CHARLES ALLAIRE to slaughter sheep and lambs at No. 467 West Forty-first-street.

Assistant Sanitary Superintendent MOREAU MORRIS reported the filthy condition of the First-avenue, between Forty-fifth and Forty-seventh streets, which he feared would cause much disease in the large tenement-houses in the vicinity. The complaint was referred to the Engineer of the Board.

Complaint was made against boats belonging to Messrs. LISTER BROTHERS, and lying at the foot of West Thirty-eighth-street, which were said to be continually filled with offensive "rendering" matter. The complaint was referred to the Attorney.

The attorney asked for final orders for the vacation of thirty-nine cellars which are said to be in an untenantable condition. The orders were granted. Nearly 400 of these places have been vacated within a few weeks past, under orders of the Board.

Complaint was made that carpenters engaged by order of the Board to provide means of ventilation in the tenement house No. 506 Ninth-avenue, were not allowed by the tenants to do the work. The matter was referred to the Police Board.

The Sanitary Superintendent reported in favor of amending the ordinances of the Board, so that cattle may be driven at any hour through certain streets north of Thirty-ninth-street. After some debate the matter was returned to the Sanitary Committee for further consideration.

The same Committee reported in favor of allowing cattle to be driven through certain portions of West, Canal, and State streets, and Battery-place, to the South Ferry, between the hours of 10 P. M. and 6 A. M.

The matter was recommitted.

The Sanitary Superintendent reported that the four inspectors recently appointed to abolish the various manure dumping grounds in and about the City, had effectually done their work, and that now there was not a single nuisance of the kind in existence in New-York.

The Board adjourned until Monday next at 1 P. M.

COMMON COUNCIL.

Board of Aldermen.

This Board met at 2 P. M., yesterday, Mr. COMAN in the chair.

The resolution to pay Messrs. GARVIN, MEEHAN and SEEBACHER, of the Comptroller's office, $1,500 each for extra services in paying laborers employed by the City Inspector's Department, was again laid over.

An ordinance forbidding the use of velocipedes on the sidewalks, under a penalty of $25 for each offence, was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Resolutions were adopted to pave with trap-block pavement Twelfth-street, from Fifth to Sixth-avenue; Fifty-sixth-street, from Eighth to Ninth-avenue; Forty-fifth-street, from Second-avenue to the East River; One Hundred and Twenty-fourth-street, from Third to Fourth-avenue, and Little Twelfth-street, from Tenth to Eleventh-avenue.

The Board then adjourned for one week.

Board of Assistant Aldermen.

This Board met at 2 P. M. yesterday, Mr. MONAGHAN in the chair.

A preamble and resolution were offered to the effect that whereas, in several other States, the citizens of the State of New-York, when proceeding through those States as commercial travelers, are compelled to take out licenses, that the Counsel to the Corporation be directed to give his opinion as to whether such exactions are not in violation of the provisions of the Constitution of the United States. It was adopted.

A resolution to extend Varick-street southerly to West Broadway was referred to the Committee on Streets.

A communication was received from the Corporation Counsel to the effect that the report of the Commissioners of Assessments in favor of opening Madison-avenue, from Eighty-sixth-street to One Hundred and Twentieth-street, on the 1st of May next, has been confirmed.

The resolution of the Board of Aldermen that all avenues be renumbered, where not already done, under the direction of the Street Commissioner, was concurred in.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM offered a preamble in relation to the strike on the Second-avenue Railroad with the following resolution:

Resolved, That the frequent occurrence of the stoppage of City travel from parsimony or extreme exaction of service from employes, as is evidenced on the part of the Second Avenue Railroad Company at the present time, calls for prompt action on the part of the City authorities, in accordance with the language of the grant, that the Common Council shall direct as to the running of the cars, and any other matter connected with the regulation of said railroad.

The paper was referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Forty-sixth-street, from Fifth-avenue to the North River was ordered to be renumbered.

The following donations were concurred in, the same being to pay assessments for the Church-street extension:

To the Dutch Church, in Washington-square, $1,143 46; Thirteenth-street Presbyterian Church, $208; Second Reformed Presbyterian Church, in West-Eleventh-street, $140 50; the United Presbyterian Church in Charles-street, $162; the Abyssinian Baptist Church, in Waverley-place, $124; the Jane-street M. E. Church, $129.

The sum of $645 45 was donated to the Roman Catholic Church in Second-avenue, to pay assessment for paving Second-avenue.

The resolution to increase the pay of the Inspectors of Sewers from $4 to $5 per day was adopted.

The Board then adjourned for one week.

Supposed Murder Case in Newark.

On Sunday evening the body of a man was found floating in Newark bay, near the lighthouse. It was brought up to the city, and there identified by Mrs. CHRISTIAN STEOR as that of her husband, who resided at No. 227 Plane-street. On the 20th of March last he went into a saloon near his house, where he remained until 2 o'clock the following morning. About that time he left in company with a hatter named BLESSMAN, and since then he had not been seen alive. BLESSMAN was arrested, and attended yesterday at the inquest on the body before Coroner CHASE. Evidence to the above facts were given, and it was further added that on the morning of his disappearance STEOR was intoxicated and partially crazy in consequence of the death of a child. Dr. SEHLBACH testified that there were wounds about the face of deceased as from a blunt instrument, and that STEOR had been thrown into the water violently, either at the time of the injuries or after they had been inflicted. BLESSMAN professes ignorance of the supposed murder, and says he parted with deceased shortly after they left the house. The inquest was adjourned.

The Proposed Widening of West-street—Remonstrance of Property Owners.

An informal meeting of the property owners and lessees of piers, bulkheads and water rights on West-street, from the Battery to Hammond-street, was held yesterday afternoon in the Real Estate Salesroom, at Trinity Building, No. 111 Broadway. Among the few present were Messrs. J. J. Astor, Jr., Chas. F. Southmayd, F. McAllister, S. S. Ward, J. S. McLane, Chas. Clarkson and P. Van Winkle. No organization was effected, but an animated discussion was kept up during the hour. Messrs. SOUTHMAYD and SPEAR were the principal speakers, although speeches in a colloquial manner were quite generally indulged in.

The special purpose of the meeting was to consider the bill now pending before the Legislature for the widening of West-street. Mr. SOUTHMAYD stated his opinion that the bill is unconstitutional, inasmuch as it proposes to take private property for public purposes without making a just compensation; that in the event of its passage the Commissioners could not proceed if restrained by the legal action of interested parties, and that the only way to accomplish anything was to send a delegation with proper remonstrances to the Senate.

Mr. SPEAR proposed that inasmuch as for some seasons past this movement had been threatened, and as the prospect of it being revived in some new phase if this present manœuvre failed, was evident to them all that a new bill be substituted for the widening of the street, to say, one hundred and fifty feet, with a proviso that would secure the work being accomplished within a specified time, and carried on without breaking down and leaving bulkheads and piers in an unfinished condition for an indefinite length of time, and conducted with a view to the inflicting of the least possible embarrassment to business and property interests. Another spoke to the same purpose, and stated his belief that this present bill was one of the swindling abuses that we lived under; that it was intended to be a fifteen years' job, like the Battery enlargement commenced in 1851 and unfinished at the present moment; and that a committee with funds should be sent to Albany to thwart the schemes of the jobbing ring.

It was finally arranged at the instance of Mr. SOUTHMAYD, that a remonstrance should be prepared and sent to the Governor and the Senate.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Before Judge Blatchford.

PATENT CASE—IMPROVEMENT IN PAINT CANS—NOVELTY—EVIDENCE.

Peter Brown vs. George C. Hall et al.—This was a suit in equity to restrain the defendants from infringing a patent issued to the plaintiff on Nov. 29, 1859, for an "improvement in paint cans." The improvement consisted in "strengthening the can by a bead running across it at such a distance from the top that the cover should just shut down against it, and placing a stout wire inside of the bead." The defendants, in their answer, set up that the invention was not new. The case came up for a final hearing on the proofs. It was shown that from 1835 to 1840 a tinsmith in this City made tin cans for freezing ice-cream, with a similar bead-wire to strengthen them, which were publicly sold. These cans were like the patented can, irrespective of the handle, and the patent says nothing about a handle.

Held by the Court—That the claim of the plaintiff for the employment of a strengthening wire within the bead for the purpose described in the patent, was anticipated by the ice-cream freezer and is void for want of novelty. That though the objection taken by the plaintiff that the answer did not specify any place where, or time when, or person by whom or when known, would be valid under the decisions of Riley vs. Morse, (15 How., 62, 110,) and Pitts vs. Edmonds, (2 Fisher's Patent Cases, 52, 54,) yet, as the objection was not taken by the plaintiff until the hearing before the Court, and was not taken when the witnesses to the point were examined, it must be taken to have been waived. An objection to evidence, which does not state the ground of the objection, is not valid. Defendants are allowed to move for an amendment of their answers in these particulars, and when thus amended the bill is to be dismissed.

For complainant, S. D. Law; for defendants, H. E. Tremain and J. A. Seaman.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—APRIL 19.

Before Presiding Justice Clerke, and Judges Ingraham and Sutherland.

CONFLICT OF STATE COURTS IN DIVORCE CASES.

Thaddeus C. Kinnier, appellant, vs. Abby A. Kinnier, respondent—This case came before the Court on an appeal from an order made by Judge CARDOZO, at Special Term, sustaining a demurrer to the complaint. The points of the demurrer were, first, that the Court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the action; and second, that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The complaint seeks to annul the marriage contract, which is claimed by defendant to exist between her and the plaintiff, on the ground that she had, at the time of her attempted marriage with the plaintiff, a former husband living, and who is still living. It appears that in 1848, Abby A., the defendant, married in this State, one Edward Pomeroy; that immediately after the marriage, the husband and wife went to reside together in Massachusetts; that in 1855, they were still living together in the latter State, the husband, for the purpose of evading the laws thereof, visited Illinois and there commenced an action against his wife for divorce, on the ground of abandonment; that about the same time the defendant, Abby A., with a like intent to evade the jurisdiction of the Courts and laws of Massachusetts, visited Connecticut to procure a divorce from her husband, upon grounds that were insufficient in Massachusetts, which was her place of residence. That afterward Abby A. appeared in Illinois, and put in an answer to her husband's complaint, in which she denied all the charges, but finally, by collusion with her husband, she allowed an illegal decree to be entered. The complaint in this action also sets forth that the Courts of Illinois never acquired jurisdiction either of the parties or the subject matter of the action. The complaint concludes by averring that the decree at Chicago, Ill., was obtained by collusion and fraud upon the Court, and was fraudulent and void as well according to the laws of Illinois as by the laws of Massachusetts, their actual residence, and of New-York, the place of the original contract. That the plaintiff, Thaddeus C. Kinnier, in ignorance of such frauds and false practices, was misled by false statements of the defendant, Abby A., as to her divorce, and was induced to enter into a contract of marriage with her; that as soon as he discovered the condition of things he refused to cohabit with her, and commenced this action for divorce. What the plaintiff now asks is that the Illinois divorce be declared fraudulent and void, and hence that the marriage between plaintiff and defendant be declared a nullity.

Counsel for the plaintiff contended that the general demurrer admits facts which show that the decree of divorce in Illinois was and is a nullity. This being so, the attempted marriage between the plaintiff and defendant is void, on the ground that Edward Pomeroy, the husband of Abby A., is living. It seems well settled that foreign judgments, whether of a foreign country or of a sister State, may be impeached for fraud. On this point a large number of decisions were cited. Again, it is provided by the laws of Massachusetts that when an inhabitant of that State shall go into another State in order to obtain a divorce for any cause which would not authorize a divorce by the laws of that State, a divorce so obtained shall be of no force or effect. Counsel also urged the point that Judge Cardozo, at Special Term, erred in assuming that the State of Massachusetts only has the right to question this decree, because it was obtained by citizens of that State. This opinion at Special Term, deciding the demurrer, seems to go to the extent of holding that parties may obtain, by collusion and fraud, void judgments in a sister State, and enforce them everywhere except in the State where they were domiciled at the time of judgment. The Court below misapprehended the complaint in assuming that it did not question the jurisdiction of the Illinois Court. That Court also erred in assuming that the complaint does not show that plaintiff has an interest in the matter which would authorize him to impeach the judgment. Whereas the defendant claims to be the lawful wife of plaintiff, she claims dower in his property and in such as he may acquire; she also claims that the plaintiff shall support her, and has instituted proceedings to enforce such claims. Counsel insisted that Judge Cardozo had erred in all these particulars, and for these reasons the General Term should reverse his judgment.

The counsel for the respondent will be heard at the opening of the Court on Tuesday morning.

For plaintiff and appellant, Mr. Parsons; for the defendant and respondent, Messrs. Blatchford and Griswold.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—APRIL 19.

Before Judge Cardozo.

MILITARY FINES—ARREST FOR NON-PAYMENT—DISCHARGE ON HABEAS CORPUS.

In the matter of S. L. H. Ward, Jr.—Mr. Ward, who is a member of the Seventh Regiment National Guard, was arrested by S. R. Pinckney, Marshal of the regiment, for non-payment of a fine imposed by Court-martial. Mr. Ward claimed that he was fined improperly, and refused payment upon that ground. Immediately upon his arrest he obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Cardozo, he alleging that the laws governing the National Guard of this State do not in any case authorize the Marshal to execute a warrant for the collection of fines by taking the body of the delinquent; and that even if they do, they are unconstitutional, because in conflict with the State Constitution, in that they deprive him of his liberty without trial by jury. Mr. Ward was discharged from arrest by the Court.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Barnard.

ALLEGED WRONGFUL DETENTION OF PROPERTY.

Benjamin Armstrong et al. vs. M. C. and Chas. Coleman.—The plaintiffs in this action complained that in April, 1868, the defendants took from their possession a stove and pipe, a black-walnut desk, a mahogany-framed looking glass, a pair of scales and set of weights, two office chairs, a table, two large maps and a large lot of groceries and other property, valued at $1,000; for which sum, together with interest, the plaintiffs demanded judgment against the defendants. The defendants put in a general denial of the plaintiffs' allegations, and also alleged that the plaintiffs were at all times at liberty to remove any property belonging to them from the premises of the defendants, and that they had repeatedly requested them to do so before the commencement of this suit. Verdict for the defendants with five per cent. allowance.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—APRIL 19.

Before Judge Freedman and a Jury.

DAMAGES—AN OPEN GRATING.

Catharine Lynch vs. John D. Meyer.—This action was brought to recover damages resulting from the carelessness of the defendant in leaving the iron grating of his cellar in Second-avenue open, so that the plaintiff, a neighbor, fell through and sustained some injury. It was testified that the plaintiff sustained a severe bruise on the leg, but did not have it fractured, and that she had frequently fainted in consequence of the same. It was also sought to prove a premature birth as a consequence of the injury, but this did not appear very conclusively. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $75, which proved a serious disappointment, inasmuch as the defendant had offered to pay $300 and the costs of suit before going to trial, but his proposition was rejected by the plaintiff.

Charles Spencer for plaintiff; Anthon & Leeds for defendant.

CITY COURT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Thompson.

CONFLICT OF PARTNERS.

Uriah H. Dudley vs. Edwin K. Scranton. This action was brought to recover the sum of $1,539 83, together with interest thereon since the first of May, 1865, which was claimed by the plaintiff as being due him from the defendant, on account of claims which the plaintiff alleged he had against the defendant for an interest in the business of manufacturing and dealing in hermetically-sealed meats, and other articles of like kind, which business had been conducted by the plaintiff in the name of U. H. Dudley for the joint profit of the parties interested. The defendant in his answer gave a general denial to all the allegations made by the plaintiff, and also set up a claim for counter damages, which claim the plaintiff denied.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Bedford.

Mary Smith, an Irishwoman, about 30 years old, was charged by Charles Young with picking his pocket on the 11th of April. He met her at 11 P. M., in Avenue B, and was invited by her to go into the house No. 719 Ninth-street. In the hall of the house she took a pocket-book from his pocket and went up stairs. He started to follow her, but was driven out by a man. The pocket-book contained $73 in money and notes to the amount of nearly $1,000. Officer Gillespie, who arrested the woman, testified that the pocket-book was found in the house and the woman confessed taking it. The Jury convicted her, and she was sent to the Penitentiary for four months.

AN OLD HOTEL THIEF.

Alfred Carter alias Walter Scott Mills, alias Alfred Wells, alias King, alias Moore, who was discharged from an indictment of [illegible] was rearrested on Friday, and brought up [illegible] day. His method of operating was to apply for lodging at a crowded hotel where he would be likely to be put into a room with another person. In the night he robbed his room-mate and decamped. Having a very respectable appearance he has practiced this game successfully in many of our large cities; and although many times arrested, has always hitherto escaped punishment. The offence for which he was indicted was committed at Earle's Hotel. Having Mr. White assigned him as counsel, he pleaded "guilty," and was sentenced to State's Prison for four years and four months.

Jacob Meyerhoffer, Frederick Weimuth and Wm. Irving were charged with stealing two coats on the 8th of January from the house of Mr. Henry S. Wells. There was no evidence against Meyerhoffer or Irving, so that they were discharged, and then Irving testified that two pawn tickets were sold him by one Marcus Raymond, (now in Sing Sing for another offence,) and he sold the tickets to Weimuth, who got the coats from the pawnbrokers. Of course all were acquitted. They have been a month or more in prison.

Chas. Brown and Wm. Dunlap were charged by a sailor, named Lawrence, with robbing him in the street on the 8th of April. Lawrence stated that about 1 A. M. on the 8th, the defendants met him in Monroe-street and asked for money. Dunlap then knocked him down and Brown held him down, and they put their hands in his pockets, where he had $1 50. A policeman came up and arrested Brown. Dunlap ran away. He spent the night in the Station-house, and next morning missed the money.

Officer Wild, who arrested the defendants, confirmed the complainant's story, saying that he saw the man on the ground and heard a cry, "Don't kill me! Don't rob me! I've got no money!"

The jury brought a verdict of "guilty of assault, with attempt to rob." The sentence was four years and six months in prison.

Mary Troutman was accused of stealing a dress from Mary Gannon. Mary Gannon told how she missed the clothes and found them on the prisoner. No intent to steal was proved, however, and Mary Troutman said she "meant to bring them back." In view of the consideration that young ladies do borrow and lend clothes sometimes, Miss Troutman was acquitted.

John Wilson pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary. He had a "jimmy" on him when arrested, and at that time expressed a wish to shoot the policeman. He has now gone to Sing Sing for two years and six months.

Leonard Dupree and Patrick Carpenter, having been caught in the act of breaking into a store, pleaded guilty. Carpenter had already spent three years in prison; Dupree has been in prison, too, on a five years' sentence, but was pardoned after fifteen months. For the last crime, they are sent up for two years and six months.

Antonio Carroll pleaded guilty to obtaining money by a bogus check, and was sent to prison for two years and six months.

Peter Koffman, for stealing old clothes, was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.
